

The donation made to “purchase” this card helps support art programs for Iraqi children in both Iraq and in Jordan. Attenders of Eastside Friends Meeting (Quakers) provide blank cards, envelopes, and watercolor pencils. People of all ages from Quaker and interfaith groups create these colorful cards.

Our project began in 2005 when Eastside Friends became aware of an art therapy program in Iraq. Their goal, “to help children deal with the trauma of war... through art... develop self-confidence, learn the value of working with others, and find creative and beautiful ways of dealing with stressful situations”. The creators of the cards share their vision.

By 2007, we found it increasingly difficult to get art supplies into Baghdad, and contacted a program that provides art opportunities for Iraqi refugee children in Jordan and also, whenever possible, for children in Iraq... “Using art to touch and connect children and youth to one another.” Our donations now go to this project. (<http://www.iraqichildrensart.org/current.html>)

We join with the adults and children connected with these art programs in both Iraq and Jordan, praying that all Iraqi children will soon be able to carry on with their lives in peace, a prayer extended to children throughout the world.

~ Eastside Friends Meeting (www.quaker.org/eastside)

The donation made to “purchase” this card helps support art programs for Iraqi children in both Iraq and in Jordan. Attenders of Eastside Friends Meeting (Quakers) provide blank cards, envelopes, and watercolor pencils. People of all ages from Quaker and interfaith groups create these colorful cards.

Our project began in 2005 when Eastside Friends became aware of an art therapy program in Iraq. Their goal, “to help children deal with the trauma of war... through art... develop self-confidence, learn the value of working with others, and find creative and beautiful ways of dealing with stressful situations”. The creators of the cards share their vision.

By 2007, we found it increasingly difficult to get art supplies into Baghdad, and contacted a program that provides art opportunities for Iraqi refugee children in Jordan and also, whenever possible, for children in Iraq... “Using art to touch and connect children and youth to one another.” Our donations now go to this project. (<http://www.iraqichildrensart.org/current.html>)

We join with the adults and children connected with these art programs in both Iraq and Jordan, praying that all Iraqi children will soon be able to carry on with their lives in peace, a prayer extended to children throughout the world.

~ Eastside Friends Meeting (www.quaker.org/eastside)

The donation made to “purchase” this card helps support art programs for Iraqi children in both Iraq and in Jordan. Attenders of Eastside Friends Meeting (Quakers) provide blank cards, envelopes, and watercolor pencils. People of all ages from Quaker and interfaith groups create these colorful cards.

Our project began in 2005 when Eastside Friends became aware of an art therapy program in Iraq. Their goal, “to help children deal with the trauma of war... through art... develop self-confidence, learn the value of working with others, and find creative and beautiful ways of dealing with stressful situations”. The creators of the cards share their vision.

By 2007, we found it increasingly difficult to get art supplies into Baghdad, and contacted a program that provides art opportunities for Iraqi refugee children in Jordan and also, whenever possible, for children in Iraq... “Using art to touch and connect children and youth to one another.” Our donations now go to this project. (<http://www.iraqichildrensart.org/current.html>)

We join with the adults and children connected with these art programs in both Iraq and Jordan, praying that all Iraqi children will soon be able to carry on with their lives in peace, a prayer extended to children throughout the world.

~ Eastside Friends Meeting (www.quaker.org/eastside)

The donation made to “purchase” this card helps support art programs for Iraqi children in both Iraq and in Jordan. Attenders of Eastside Friends Meeting (Quakers) provide blank cards, envelopes, and watercolor pencils. People of all ages from Quaker and interfaith groups create these colorful cards.

Our project began in 2005 when Eastside Friends became aware of an art therapy program in Iraq. Their goal, “to help children deal with the trauma of war... through art... develop self-confidence, learn the value of working with others, and find creative and beautiful ways of dealing with stressful situations”. The creators of the cards share their vision.

By 2007, we found it increasingly difficult to get art supplies into Baghdad, and contacted a program that provides art opportunities for Iraqi refugee children in Jordan and also, whenever possible, for children in Iraq... “Using art to touch and connect children and youth to one another.” Our donations now go to this project. (<http://www.iraqichildrensart.org/current.html>)

We join with the adults and children connected with these art programs in both Iraq and Jordan, praying that all Iraqi children will soon be able to carry on with their lives in peace, a prayer extended to children throughout the world.

~ Eastside Friends Meeting (www.quaker.org/eastside)