Whitewater Quarterly Meeting Report Sixth Month 17, 2009

Over the course of the last year, Whitewater Quarterly Meeting held three sessions: Tenth Month 11-12, 2008, at Happy Hallow Camp in Nashville, IN (in conjunction with the biannual Joint Quarterly Meeting, facilitated by North Meadow Circle of Friends); First Month 17, 2009, at Bloomington Friends Meetinghouse in Pendleton, IN; and Fourth Month 18, 2009, at Stout Meetinghouse in Richmond, IN (hosted by Clear Creek Friends Meeting). Whitewater Quarterly Meeting Friends gratefully acknowledge the faithful service of Friends who participated in hosting these sessions, as well as those who attended.

At the Fourth Month 2009 session, Friends united with a traveling letter forwarded by Bloomington Friends introducing Rex Sprouse, who has leading to travel under religious concern among Friends in the Midwest through Sixth Month 2010. The letter will be forwarded to Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting for consideration.

At the First Month 2009 session, North Meadow Circle of Friends brought forward a minute on agrarian living. Friends were asked at the time to discuss and season this minute in their monthly meetings and to be prepared to report on those discussions at the Fourth Month 2009 session, at which time the minute would be considered again. Several meetings followed through and representatives presented summaries of discussions, including in a few cases alternative wordings at the subsequent session. Although there was clearly a broad-based sense of sympathy for the actions outlined in the original minute, a number of concerns were expressed. Friends agreed that rather than seeking to find precise wording around which all meetings can unite, each meeting would forward its responses and recommendations to the Clerk of the Earth Care Subcommittee of the Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting Peace and Social Concerns Committee.

At the Tenth Month 2008 session, the Clerk shared with Friends a letter he had received from Eastern Hills Friends Meeting, expressing disappointment with the response that Whitewater Quarterly Meeting Friends had offered at an Executive Committee meeting in Third Month 2008 to an inquiry submitted to Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting in autumn 2007 regarding the circumstances under which Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting would be open to the membership of meetings with programmed worship and/or paid pastors. At the time, Whitewater Quarterly Meeting Friends stressed that both of these practices are inconsistent with the current Book of Discipline of Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting, although a number of additional concerns were also raised. In their letter, Eastern Hill Friends Meeting asked Whitewater Quarterly Meeting to reconsider its position. Whitewater Quarterly Meeting Friends agreed that the matter would be discussed again in their monthly meetings and the matter would be revisited at the Fourth Month 2009 session. At that session, reports on discussions about the Eastern Hills/Irvington concern were heard from North Meadow, Clear Creek, Lafayette, Fall Creek, and Bloomington Friends. Whitewater Quarterly Meeting Friends seek to express their love for Irvington Friends and to find further venues for dialogue and outreach. At the same time, however, Friends found that there was no unity among Whitewater Quarterly Meeting Friends to change the response to Irvington Friends' query minuted at the First Month 19, 2008 session.

At the Fourth Month 2009 session, Friends heard State of the Meeting reports from Bloomington, Clear Creek, Fall Creek, Fort Wayne, Lafayette, and North Meadow Friends Meetings. It was noted that this year's State of the Meeting reports were particularly successful at conveying the spiritual conditions of the monthly meetings. Although the quarterly meetings in Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting are morbidly weak bodies, one should not imagine that Friends who attend sessions do not experience deeply spiritual speaking and listening.

Currently, Whitewater Quarterly Meeting's Advancement and Nurture Committee consists of: David Gay Diann Herzog (Fall Creek; term ending First Month 2011) and Elaine Troff (North Meadow; term ending First Month 2012). Friends have yet to discern a second member to serve on Budget and Finance Committee with Treasurer Stan Zarowin (North Meadow). At the moment, Rex Sprouse (Bloomington) is serving as Presiding Clerk. Rex prefers to clerk meetings without the assistant of a Recording Clerk. At any time, Whitewater Quarterly Meeting's Nominating Committee consists of those Friends who have been designated as their monthly meeting reporters/representatives to the Quarterly Meeting. At this time, Nominating Committee has been unable to identify a name to bring forward to replace the current Presiding Clerk, who has asked to be released from service. Once a new Presiding Clerk is in place, Ron Haldeman (North Meadow) will assume the office of Recording Clerk.

Those who regularly attend the Quarterly Meeting sessions generally enjoy the opportunity for fellowship with Friends they do not see every week and find these meetings spiritually nourishing. The quality of vocal ministry is sometimes very high, and the time together often enables Friends to receive encouragement and nurture in one-on-one or small group settings. At a recent session, Friends experienced the Divine grace of an unplanned worship sharing around the topic of healing.

However, it would be disingenuous to end this report on too optimistic a note. Attendance at Quarterly Meeting sessions is extremely poor. The vast majority of members of Whitewater Quarterly Meeting do not bother to attend even a single Quarterly Meeting session a year, and in many cases, only a handful of members of even the hosting monthly meeting attend. In general, our monthly meetings have failed to impress upon candidates for membership in the Religious Society of Friends both the joy and the responsibility associated with membership in the Quarterly Meeting. Very frequently, only about half of the constituent monthly meetings send reporters/representatives to Quarterly Meeting sessions. While we were blessed to be able to welcome Fort Wayne Friends Meeting into the Yearly Meeting in Fourth Month 2008, it should also be noted that Fort Wayne Friends came to us as a fully developed monthly meeting, fully prepared to enter into the life of Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting in terms of both faith and practice: Whitewater Quarterly Meeting Friend merely needed to visit, to listen, and to recognize what the Holy Spirit had already accomplished among Fort Wayne Friends. We contributed virtually nothing to their development.

Whitewater Quarterly Meeting is generally not respected by the Yearly Meeting, as evidenced by the handling of the Irvington query, the Eastern Hills letter, and the protests heard at the 2008 Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting sessions from the Yearly Meeting Advancement and Nurture Committee over the Quarterly Meeting's establishment of two committees necessary for it to function. I would like to call on Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting Friends to enter into a serious discussion about the continued existence of the quarterly meeting structure. Only if we are willing to participate actively and regularly in the life of our quarterly meetings, to impress on new members that this participation is both a right and a responsibility of membership in the Religious Society of Friends, and to honor and support the mission of the quarterly meetings as the bodies responsible for shepherding new meetings into the Yearly Meeting, should we continue in this organizational pattern. If we are not willing to do what is required to let quarterly meetings thrive, then we should lay this structure down, being careful that the responsibilities and services it once provided are met by other structures. I ask that we seek the guidance of the Holy Spirit and that we then act on the Light we are given. To allow these bodies to continue in their current moribund state, holding responsibilities that neither the Yearly Meeting nor most of the membership in the monthly meetings believe they should have and floundering for a sense of purpose, does not feel rightly ordered.

Rex Sprouse, Presiding Clerk

Whitewater Quarterly Meeting

Miami Quarterly Meeting

Miami Quarterly Meeting gathered on three occasions during the past year, the first on Tenth Month, 11, 2009 at Happy Hollow Campgrounds near Nashville, Indiana. This was a joint quarterly meeting hosted by Whitewater Quarterly Meeting. In addition to Meeting for Worship and business session, Friends enjoyed a beautiful and warm weekend of reflection in the woods and trails of the camp. Twenty-one Friends attended meeting for worship with attention to business including sixteen named representatives from monthly meetings. The Quarter united with Community Friends Meeting in its minute which opposed a gambling initiative on the Ohio ballot. Friends approved an expenditure from the Cincinnati Fund to assist OVYM teens in the cost of the joint quarter gathering at the camp. Eastern Hills Monthly Meeting requested that further discussion and consideration of the request from Irvington Friends Meeting take place among monthly meetings. Irvington Friends Meeting is a programmed meeting with a pastor. This meeting has approached OVYM to determine the feasibility of affiliation with a non programmed, FGC, yearly meeting. Representatives to the Quarter affirmed continued openness and dialog with Irvington Friends.

Miami Quarterly Meeting convened at Louisville Monthly Meeting on Second Month, 15, 2009. After weeks of snow and severe ice storms, Friends enjoyed a warm and sunny late winter day for travel to Louisville. The program portion of the gathering was especially enjoyable as OVYM teens engaged adults in a worship sharing session regarding questions of living as a Quaker in a secular world and the role of the teens within the yearly meeting. This session highlighted the leadership and intuitiveness of our teens, a critically important constituency within the yearly meeting. Nineteen Friends attended meeting for worship with attention to business including nine named representatives from monthly meetings. Nominations for Quarterly Meeting officers were approved. All incumbent officers agreed to another one year term, Tom Nowel, Presiding Clerk; Lonny Burger, Recording Clerk; Frank Huss, Treasurer; and Susan Hyde, two year term on the Committee of Two. Friends considered the minute "Seeking Right Relationship with Food and Land" which had been submitted for consideration by the Earth Care Subcommittee. Miami Monthly Meeting had approved the minute, and Community Meeting had also approved the minute with a minor change. Representatives approved the spirit of the minute but also recommended that it be returned to all monthly meetings in the quarter for wider unity and reflection with the understanding that Miami Quarterly Meeting would again consider the minute at its session during Fifth Month. Friends considered financial support of the OVYM teen trip to Alaska. Friends felt that it was appropriate to allocate funding from the Cincinnati Fund. It was stated that Quarterly Meeting and Yearly Meeting have a history of supporting youth in their quest for spiritual growth and discovery. Friends approved financial support in the amount of $1000.00 with additional financial support, if necessary, assigned to the authority of the Committee of Two.

Miami Quarterly Meeting convened on Fifth Month, 17, 2009 at Miami Monthly Meeting in Waynesville, Ohio. This was the 200 year anniversary of Miami Quarterly Meeting. The first session was held on Fifth Month, 13, 1809 in Waynesville at nearly the same location as the present day gathering. Friends enjoyed the opportunity to celebrate the anniversary with historic documents and photographs which were placed on a history table in the Red Brick Meeting House. The highlight of the anniversary event was a wonderful power point presentation of the photographic history of Miami Quarterly Meeting which had been created by Christine Snyder from Dayton Friends Meeting. Many old photographs of meeting houses, graveyards and other historic sites chronicled the spread of Friends' Meetings throughout the southwestern portion of Ohio in the early and mid 1800s. Copies of the minutes taken at the first session of the quarter in 1809 were on display, both men's and women's sessions. State of Society Reports were read in a spirit led manner. This is always a special event as Friends consider the health, vitality and concerns of our constituent monthly meetings. Nineteen Friends attended meeting for worship with attention to business including nine named representatives from monthly meetings. Friends again considered the proposed minute from the Earth Care Subcommittee regarding food and land. As unity among monthly meetings was not achievable, Friends suggested that the subcommittee re-write the minute based on suggestions that have been forwarded by both quarterly meetings and monthly meetings. It was also suggested that monthly meetings have another opportunity to respond to a revised minute prior to submission to yearly meeting. Friends approved a minute outlining these recommendations. Roy Joe Stuckey was in attendance from Campus Meeting. He reported that he is also Presiding Clerk of Miami Center Quarterly Meeting of Wilmington Yearly Meeting. Campus Meeting has dual membership with OVYM and Wilmington. Roy Joe invited Friends to attend Miami Center Quarterly Meeting session on the second First Day of Eighth Month, 2009. The session is being held at the historic meeting house at Pioneer Village in Caesar Creek State Park.

Quarterly Meeting Friends expressed appreciation for the wonderful hospitality of Whitewater Quarterly Meeting, Louisville Friends Meeting and Miami Monthly Meeting as they each hosted our sessions over the past year. We experienced centered meetings for worship, warm facilities, delicious meals and time to enjoy friendships and relationships. We have been blessed by the attendance of teens and youth. We strive to gather in a manner that will allow Friends to hear and follow the still, small voice of God in our corporate actions and individual lives.

Executive Committee Report

Ben Griffith, Clerk

Our Executive Committee had a relatively “quiet” year. We have a continuing concern about the lack of attendance by some of the monthly meeting representatives. Our ability to hear all voices and concerns from within the Yearly Meeting is severely limited by this.

There are a number of noteworthy actions to report:

- Transition from employee status for our positions of Youth Secretary and Clerical Support Person to a contractual relationship. Legally we are better off to have this kind of relationship and additionally there are some labor saving advantages for the treasurer.
- Training of youth workers, volunteer and paid, was taken under the care of Religious Education. The committee will establish periodic and regular showing of the training dvd.
- Received and approved the Audit Committee report from last year. Also approved the Nominating Committee’s request to allow the Auditor’s more time to complete the audit. The handbook asks the audit to be completed before sessions. This leaves only the briefest window for the audit to occur.
- We held our first regularly called Executive Committee via phone conference. The committee members felt it useful to conduct many of the more straight -forward items of business this way, but concern exists about discerning any more involved matters. It does save gas, green house emissions and time.
- A number of handbook revisions were approved and posting the “official” approved version on the web. All handbooks that are floating around are merely reference documents- it is just too much work to try and continually update the many copies with approved revisions.
- Caught by the unusual calendar issues presented to the YM planning committee, the Executive Committee approved the Planning Cmte’s suggestion for providing subsidies to First-time Attenders and Young Adult Friends (18-35 yrs. Old). However, for any future subsidies, the Planning Committee will bring the matter to the floor of the sessions for approval for the following year.
- Held the first Annual Budget Advisory Meeting in April. All Friends (anyone who wanted to be a part of the process) were encouraged to attend a morning session of Executive Meeting to help flesh out concerns and ideas about the proposed budget for Yearly Meeting

OVYM Advanced Reports 2009

- Extended the deadline for the Ad hoc Committee on Contributions to work with the Budget and Finance Committee to bring a well-thought out plan to regularly review our contributions in the yearly meeting budget.

In addition to these actions, our committee heard about a year of reflection and study by A&N to thresh out its role in YM, heard from the Teen Committee and Youth Secretary at the steady progress of fund-raising to make the Alaska Trip possible, and many of the myriad chores that our many people are engaged with. We are an active body of Friends. Please continue to hold the work of this interim body, the Executive Committee, in the Light. It is an especially challenging chore to discern the work that needs to be done for the Yearly Meeting and the work that should/could wait for the session floor.

Clerical Support Staff Report

All is well. The main news is that the Clerical Support Staff position is now an independent contractor rather than an employee position. This hasn't changed the substance of what I do, but only how I get paid. I continue to exchange emails, calls, and even letters with a variety of Friends who are doing the work of their Monthly Meetings and the Yearly Meeting. Please let me know if I can help you or your Meeting better communicate with the Yearly Meeting. Remember to check out the updated Handbook on the OVYM website if you have questions about OVYM and its structure. I welcome pictures to post on the blogsite too. I'm still grateful to be able to do some of this work at home and work with and for Quakers.

Yours in service,

Deborah Jordan

OVYM Web Site

Barbarie Hill, Publications Coordinator

The OVYM web site (<http://quaker.org/ovym>) was maintained this year with the following additions:

- Program, epistles, minutes, FY09 budget and statistical report from the 2008 annual sessions
- Officers and committee clerks
- Issues of Quaker Quill
- Program, schedule and registration forms for 2009 annual sessions

Other pages were updated as needed.

Personnel Committee Report

The Personnel Committee enjoyed a full agenda over the past year. A minute amending the composition of the committee was approved by the Executive Committee last year. But the most important work of the committee involved OVYM paid staff. Yearly Meeting employment practices were reviewed and brought into compliance with the Fair Labor Standards Act last year. The committee balanced the needs of OVYM with employee fairness and equity and determined that moving to a contractual relationship provided benefits for all involved. Service provider agreements replaced the direct employee relationship. This approach also simplified the responsibilities of the OVYM Treasurer. Initial six month contracts were finalized with the clerical support person and Youth Secretary with the expectation of one year renewal contracts to follow. The committee then recommended a number of modifications to the personnel policies, that are contained in the OVYM Handbook, to reflect the new contractual arrangements.

With the recent announcement of the resignation of the current Youth Secretary, the Personnel Committee will be prepared to assist with the recruitment process and development of a new employment agreement. Members of the Personnel Committee are J P Lund, Steve Angell and Tom Nowel.

Summary of Epistles 2009
Janette K. Shetter and William Z. Shetter

On reading through the epistles we have received, one thing that impressed us was how for Friends the Yearly Meeting sessions seem to be a high point in the year. It is a unique chance to get together for addressing common concerns, for fellowship together and for just plain fun. And it is a time for being more conscious of the presence of our youth than Friends might be when aware of only their own Meetings. The epistle from Britain YM starts by saying “As we opened our hearts one to another in the truth of God, we experienced the personal warmth of friendship and passed around infectious smiles that the children gave us.”

Almost all expressed the simple joy of being together. North Pacific YM speaks of “the renewal of our connections”, Philadelphia YM of “the holy community we created at this gathering”, Lake Erie YM says “we have been blessed by ... each other’s presence”, Northern YM “We come for community”. New England YM is honest in reminding us that “we need to learn to forgive each other”. New York YM finds a blessing in the rainy weather at YM time: “throughout the week the nearly continual rains kept us largely indoors: in community, in relationship, and in ourselves”. Unprogrammed Quakers in Latin America assure us that “this gathering was a gift of friendship, closeness and intimacy”, and German YM “We rejoice in the presence of so many families”.

The epistles mention the nature around them at the time of meeting. Lake Erie YM speaks of “torrents of rain that miraculously parted whenever the children’s program had outside activities”, Intermountain YM Friends are awed by “the beauty of God’s creation ... the strong wind sweeping across the colored rock spires”, Northern YM reminds us of “the natural loveliness of our retreat site.” At New York YM “the rains continued to pour down as did the power of God working in our midst”, New Zealand YM had similar weather: “The weather sent us rain, mist, fog and welcome sunshine”, and Cuba YM met “bathed by the rushing waters of the Caribbean”.

The nature around them has reinforced Friends’ deep consciousness of the care of the earth. Philadelphia YM says that “an earth restored [is] much on our minds”, Intermountain YM reminds us that “climate change continues as a significant concern”, and Iowa YM is mindful of “disproportionate use of the earth’s limited resources”. Britain YM says “we walk cheerfully in the right direction, seeking to live sustainably on our earth.” New Zealand YM assures us that “we were challenged by Friends working on issues of Climate Change”. Denmark YM’s keynote speaker spoke of “testimony of love for our earth”.

Many Friends have gone on to discern specific actions on environmental issues. North Pacific YM approved a “Minute on Global Climate Change”, Illinois YM is designing a new building mindful of “seeking to live lightly through sustainable buildings”, and New York YM informs us that “issues seasoned in committees included ... care of our earth”.

At Netherlands YM Friends played the ‘footprint game’: they “calculated how much carbon dioxide we produce” and encouraged donations to “support sustainable development”; they will sign an initiative to enforce reduction of carbon dioxide emission, and to check the loss of biodiversity.

The themes under which YM sessions were held were as varied as the YMs themselves, but what Friends everywhere are reminding each other of shows how much we have in common. North Pacific YM’s was “Answering to that of God in Everyone”, Iowa YM’s “Follow the Light”, Illinois YM’s “Our Ministry of Reconciliation”, Philadelphia YM says “Starting our Journeys—In Light, Love and Peace”, and Intermountain YM spoke of their “Compassionate Listening Project”. New York YM Friends showed a strong awareness of the spread of generations: “Spiritual Community across the Spectrum of Age”. Wilmington YM’s was “Do you want to be made well?” (John 5: 2-9) and Indiana YM’s “I want to know Christ” (Phil. 3:10).

Of the YMs abroad, Switzerland YM showed the same awareness: “the integration of all generations to promote the future of our Quaker Society”. Unprogrammed Friends in Latin America are still pondering together “Our Quaker Identity”, Cuba YM reminds each other and us “Let us leave all for Christ” and Northwest YM of Friends Church calls us to “Bring Forth the Kingdom”. The strong environmental concern of Netherlands YM is evident in their theme “Sustainability—where is your limit?”.

Many Yearly Meetings were restructuring, exploring new possibilities, finding the best structure. North Pacific YM’s experiment of adding another day to the sessions is “openness to explore new possibilities”, and Philadelphia YM is “committed to an intentional process of self-discovery and discernment”. Unease with Friends United Meeting’s personnel policy excluding gays and lesbians caused some Friends to struggle with ways of addressing this issue. New England YM struggles with staying in FUM: “We are resentful over differences within our YM” and want to “transform that pain into something else”, and New York YM is “Seeking clarity about how to be in association with FUM”

Of concern to all of us is the decline in membership that some YMs are noting and sharing with us. Indiana YM regretfully tells us “Once again, we recorded a decline in membership and attendance and noted the laying down of one of our oldest monthly meetings. Many of our congregations have become so small that some might question their viability.” Wilmington YM is equally candid in saying “We seek ways forward through concerns about dwindling membership and differences of opinion regarding theology and individual behavior.”

Other YMs attempted discernment on different issues. Northern YM asks us “how do we learn to be faithful to a small number of corporately discerned concerns?”, and New York YM : “We are in a place of pausing ... seeking guidance to discern our direction and readiness to address the impending global crises.” Northwest YM, in revising their Faith and Practice, admitted that “it was hard for us to make these deep structural changes”.

Ireland YM found a peaceful place “after years of travail over ... Quaker Life and Practice”. The painfulness of some of these struggles for clarity was evident: New Zealand YM speaks of the “sometimes painful inquiry of our policies”. Indiana YM says “The Holy Spirit also guided us to unity to address a letter to our members of Congress, urging a lowering of rhetoric and a search for peaceful solutions on our conflict with Iran.”

Friends in some YMs had unique situations or took unique action. Unprogrammed Friends in Latin America were regretful that “many Latin American Quakers could not attend”, Denmark YM engaged in “constructive dialogue” after the widely publicized cartoon offensive to Muslims was published in the Danish press “in the hope of reconciliation with the Muslim community in Denmark”. Switzerland YM approved a statement to send to the European Union about the need for non-violent intervention in countries where civilians are being slaughtered. New Zealand YM approved a statement on Maori rights.

Ireland YM had recently hosted the FWCC Triennial, and this was evident throughout their epistle. Australia YM’s clerk Lyndsay Farrall, incidentally, had once studied at Indiana University and attended Bloomington Meeting. In Australia, their Young Friends will deliver the keynote lecture next year.

The warmest side of epistles is always the personal greetings they send to Friends in other Yearly Meetings. Philadelphia YM says “we send you our prayers”, Northwestern YM of Friends Church assures us “our epistle is sent to you with love and blessings, “Cuba YM sends “a warm greeting to our brothers and sisters”, and Switzerland YM “we are very grateful to belong to the worldwide Quaker family”. Let us heed the words of New England YM which reminds us “dear Friends, pray for us” and Britain YM’s “We send you this epistle with our love and hold you in our prayers as we trust you are holding us in yours.” As we begin our own yearly meeting sessions, we feel blessed to be reminded by these epistles that we are part of the worldwide fabric of Friends.

Report from Representatives to Friends General Conference Central Committee
Sixth Month 18, 2009

General background

Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting (then known as Indiana Yearly Meeting (Hicksite)) was one of the seven yearly meetings that co-founded Friends General Conference in 1900. Most Quakers affiliated with Friends General Conference do not view FGC as their “titular denomination,” but rather as an umbrella organization offering spiritual support and services to its 14 affiliated yearly meetings and associations, its nine directly affiliated monthly meetings, and its one statewide fellowship.

In Tenth Month 1998, Friends General Conference adopted the following as part of its statement of purpose:

Friends General Conference is a Quaker organization in the unprogrammed tradition of the Religious Society of Friends which primarily serves affiliated yearly and monthly meetings. It is our experience that:

- Faith is based on direct experience of God.
- Our lives witness this experience individually and corporate.
- By answering that of God in everyone, we build and sustain inclusive community.

FGC provides resources and opportunities that educate and invite members and attenders to experience, individually and corporately, God’s living presence, and to discern and follow God’s leadings. FGC reaches out to seekers and to other religious bodies inside and outside the wider Religious Society of Friends.

Annual Gathering

Friends General Conference may be most familiar to Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting Friends through the weeklong Annual Gathering sponsored by FGC every summer, traditionally scheduled to include the Independence Day holiday. Beginning in 2010, arrival will be on First Day and departure on Seventh Day, yielding a six-night gathering, and allowing a weekend day on either side for travel. Venues include:

2009: Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, Blacksburg, VA

2010: Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, OH

2011: Grinnell College, Grinnell, IA

The Annual Gathering offers:

OVYM Advanced Reports 2009

- a wide range of weeklong workshops on a various of topics of interest to Friends
- several daily opportunities for worship, including extended worship
- a series of evening plenary speakers and performers
- an extensive program for children and high school students
- an art gallery and a film series
- a wide range of interest groups
- a Gathering bookstore
- shared meals
- many opportunities for making and deepening spiritually-based friendships
- accessibility services for those with disabilities
- and much, much more...

It is generally understood that the only FGC business conducted at the Annual Gathering is that which is necessary for the rightly ordered functioning of the Gathering itself (typically, through meetings of the Gathering Committee). FGC seeks to make Annual Gathering attendance within the financial grasp of everyone; Friends are referred to the FGC website (www.fgcquaker.org) for affordability tips.

Other programs, services, and resources

FGC is much more than the Annual Gathering. FGC's other programs include:

- Christian and Interfaith Relations
- Couple Enrichment
- FGC Bookstore and the Quaker Press of FGC
- Meetinghouse Fund
- Ministry on Racism
- Quaker Quest of FGC
- Religious Educators' Institute (held every four years, more recently at Bradford Woods in Martinsville, IN, in Eighth Month 2008)
- Support for the Ministry of Clerking (facilitated by Ministry and Nurture Committee)
- Traveling Ministries Program
- Youth Ministries
- and other programs and services

Friends are encouraged to visit the www.fgcquaker.org for an overview of the programs, services, and resources available.

Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting Representatives to FGC Central Committee

Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting's named Representatives to Friends General Conference Central Committee for 2008-2009 were Richard House, Rex A. Sprouse, and Eric Wolff. As part of their work on Central Committee, Richard also serves a member of Long Range Conference Planning Committee; Rex also serves as OVYM's Yearly Meeting Representative to Executive Committee, as a member of Blue Book Committee, Ministry and Nurture Committee, Traveling Ministries Committee, and Yearly Meeting Visitors Committee, and as Co-Clerk of the 2010 FGC Annual Gathering Committee; Eric also serves as a member of Publications Committee.

Friends General Conference Central Committee meets every year over a long weekend at the end of Tenth Month. The 2008 meeting was held at the New Windsor Conference Center, operated by the Church of the Brethren, in New Windsor, MD. This gathering proved to be a busy, yet spiritually centering experience for your Yearly Meeting representatives. This year's meeting was not particularly characterized by controversy or the need to seek fresh discernment on a range of issues. Indeed, much of our work in plenary sessions consisted of listening to reports of the various program and administrative committees that carry out many of the tasks of Friends General Conference Central Committee, lifting up one another, and supporting one another in prayer and with words of encouragement. Similar words could be written about the smaller Executive Committee meetings held Second Month 6-7, 2009, at Providence Meetinghouse in Media, PA and Fourth Month 24-26, 2009, at Pittsburgh Friends Meetinghouse, in Pittsburgh, PA.

FGC Update for Summer 2009

One of the great achievements of the past year was the publication by the Quaker Press of FGC of the much anticipated volume Fit for Freedom, Not for Friendship: Quakers, African Americans and the Myth of Racial Justice by Vanessa Julye and Donna McDaniel. The release of the book was celebrated on Second Month 5, 2009, at the Arch Street Meetinghouse in Philadelphia, PA. To quote from the Fit for Freedom web page (<http://www.fgcquaker.org/fit-for-freedom>):

Fit for Freedom, Not for Friendship reveals that racism has been as insidious, complex, and pervasive among Friends as it has been generally among people of European descent. The book documents the spiritual and practical impacts of discrimination in the Religious Society of Friends in the belief that understanding the truth of our past is vital to achieving a diverse, inclusive community in the future.

Friends are encouraged to read Fit for Freedom, Not for Friendship with open hearts and minds, to form study groups within their monthly meetings (perhaps aided by the study guide also available) to consider the material not only individually, but also corporately, and to have faith that confronting the past of our Religious Society in a truthful, de-romanticized fashion is an important key to the development of a racially diverse, inclusive faith community in the 21st Century.

Like almost all non-profit organizations, the recent economic downturn proven financially challenging for Friends General Conference. Because of good financial stewardship in recent years, FGC is not facing the same sort of crisis mode faced by many non-profits. Nevertheless, FGC Finance Committee has warned us that there is a growing disparity between projected expenses and projected income and has urged us to set as a goal reducing that gap to zero within the next five years. Finance Committee Friends have urged major steps toward restructuring in 2011 and 2012. Already, it has been necessary to terminate the position of FGC office receptionist, and it is likely that additional FGC staff positions will be cut in the future. There is a movement to conduct more of our committee business by conference call, rather than face-to-face weekend meetings, and the reduced number of weekend committee meetings are more likely to be held in the Philadelphia area, saving money on FGC staff travel. An Ad Hoc Priorities Committee is also working to discern how Friends General Conference can be faithful to our leadings to nurture the spiritual vitality of the Religious Society of Friends, while keeping within the material blessings we are being given.

FGC service opportunity for Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting Friends

The 2010 Friends General Conference Annual Gathering will be held at Bowling Green State University in Northwestern Ohio. FGC is relying on support from Lake Erie Yearly Meeting and Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting Friends to volunteer to serve on the Gathering Committee. Service on the Gathering Committee is primarily a matter of service on one of the subcommittees. We are still looking for Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting Friends willing to serve on one of the following subcommittees: Worship Subcommittee, Workshop Subcommittee, and Evening Programs Subcommittee. You can read descriptions of the various subcommittees and register your interest in serving at the following URL: <http://www.fgcquaker.org/gathering/next-year>. For more information, please do not hesitate to contact Rex Sprouse.

Budget Proposal
Budget & Finance Committee

Bottom Line:

This year's proposed budget is 3.5% larger than last year's.
It has a $1500 deficit – that is, we expect our income to be $1500 less than expenses.
Projected contributions from monthly meetings are less than was hoped for Budget increases include

1. provision for an overlap of outgoing and incoming Youth Secretaries
2. an increase in representative travel
3. subsidies for first-time attenders and Young Adult Friends at this year's sessions

Budget cuts include

1. skipping the Discipline Printing Fund transfer
2. reducing projected Operating and Committee expenses

Recommendation to close the deficit

1. Draw $1500 from reserves
2. Send an appeal letter to monthly meetings

Alternative is to reduce contributions to other Quaker organizations by 8%

Budget Proposal:

As you can see, the budget proposal for the advance documents is much shorter this year. Only those tables that relate to parts of the budget under consideration by the yearly meeting are included. Of course, all the detail will appear in the final report in the minute book. Also note, these tables use preliminary 2008-09 actuals; the final report may be adjusted slightly to reflect final numbers.

This has been a difficult budget to compile. We have undertaken two major initiatives to encourage attendance at the annual sessions just as the problems in the economy put a squeeze on projected contributions. As a result, we are recommending some changes from the preliminary budget. These will be pointed out in the review of the budget tables.

Table 1 presents a summary of the seven active funds. First, draw your attention to the Discipline Printing Fund. In each of the past three years, OVYM has been adding $500 to this fund. In light of the need to tighten the budget and the fact that the actual printing of the Discipline is several years off, we recommend this transfer be skipped. As a result, the balance in the fund would remain at $1500.

Tables 2-6 contain detail on activity in various funds and will be included in the final report.

Table 7 presents the detail on how the remaining costs of the Teen Alaska Trip will be paid. At this point, it looks like income will be very close to expenses.

Table 8 is the General Fund summary. This is where most OVYM activities are booked. The proposed budget is somewhat ambitious. First, we are projecting an increase in contributions from the monthly meetings. This number is primarily based on responses from the meetings, telling us what they hope to contribute in the coming year. For those meetings that did not send this information, we have made a “best guess.” Also on the income side, we have decreased the expected income from interest and individual contributions based on the past year’s actual values.

On the expense side, the big change is in the cost of the annual sessions. Please remember this refers to the sessions that start in July 2009 – this is already committed by the time the budget is approved. Costs this year are expected to be nearly $5000 higher than last year. This will be described in more detail below. Based on the actual expenses in the past year, we are budgeting less for our operating and committee expenses and more for representative travel in the coming year.

Tables 10, 11, & 13 show the details of our operating expenses. There have been a number of minor adjustments based on recent expenses, but the only significant change is we are setting aside money to allow an overlap in the terms of the current Teen Secretary and a new hire. Overall, we are projecting modest savings in these categories.

Table 15 reports projected committee expenses. For the most part, adjustments from last year's budget are based on actual expenses in the past year. In addition, the natural movement of some children from the middle youth program to the teen program is reflected in the projected costs for those programs. Requests for committee travel reimbursement were down this year, but we expect to see more in the coming year. Tables 16 to 21 have committee and representative travel expense detail. These will be included in the final report.

Table 22 shows expected income and expenses for the 2009 annual sessions. You will notice two experimental programs – subsidies for first-time attenders and Young Adult Friends make up the bulk of the changes from last year. Whether these programs are continued in future years will be taken up during this year’s business sessions.

Deficit Closing Alternatives:

As noted above, this budget has a $1500 deficit. Budget & Finance Committee is proposing we draw about $1500 from our reserves (currently we have $27,169 in reserves) to bring it into balance. To minimize the decline in reserves, we will ask monthly meetings to consider increasing their contributions to the yearly meeting.

We discussed a number of alternatives for closing the deficit. The only one we felt reasonably comfortable with was to trim slightly our contributions to other Quaker organizations. An 8% reduction would save $1548 – which should wipe out our deficit. Such an action could be authorized at the annual sessions. Or the Budget & Finance Committee could review actual income and expenses in June 2010. If there is still a deficit, make an adjustment to the contributions at that time.

Finally, we are hoping things will actually be better in the coming year. The overall economy should improve and the Yearly Meeting won't be fund-raising for an Alaska Teen Trip. This was also the first year in which monthly meetings were asked how much they are able to contribute, rather than being told how much to pay. As we gain more experience with this process, things should be smoother.

- (a) Expenses are less than budget, but income is less than budget to a greater degree. So our general fund amount is down.
- (b) More income and more expenses are expected for the Teen's Spirit Camp trip, but we expect the result to be about what we budgeted.
- (c) secretary's expenses are normal; travel, postage, office expense have been lumped under "office expense"
- (d) tax expense is now combined with salary in employee's "contractual fees"
- (e) teen committee has been wonderfully active; service trip to Dayton, as well as spirit camp in Alaska.
- (f) rep travel has been slightly more than budgeted, reimbursed committee travel somewhat less.
- (g) yearly meeting income and expenses from last year's sessions about what we expected.

Friends Home, Inc. (Quaker Heights Care Community)
2009 Report to Yearly Meeting

Quaker Heights continues to provide independent and assisted living, as well as skilled nursing care to the Waynesville community. The nursing home remained full most of the past year. Assisted Living has had open units since last fall; we believe this decline in occupancy to be related to the general economy.

The Board of Trustees recognized their need to seek external help in determining future directions for Quaker Heights. To this end Wipfli, Inc. was engaged to complete a market analysis of our current services and the possibility of adding home care. It was quickly clear that we do not have the resources to initiate home care. Currently Wipfli is working with the administrators and Board to complete a strategic plan within the next few months.

An electronic medical records system has been implemented this year in the nursing home. The goals for its use include to encourage complete charting required by external agencies and to decrease the time nursing staff spends away from direct care. Full implementation of the system continues.

Our chaplain has been very active in providing care to residents and families. She and the Quaker Concerns Committee have created a Quiet Room for the community. It is a beautiful space open to all for medication, prayer, and reflection. The Quiet Room was dedicated in May in a service that embraced many faith communities within the Waynesville area.

The Foundation and the Advancement Committee of the Board of Trustees have been working more closely this year as we begin to seek ways to sustain Quaker Heights. Help from outside sources will become increasingly important if the Medicaid support to nursing homes is reduced next year. We recognize the need to move forward aggressively with structured and intentional fundraising in order to survive.

At the annual meeting this spring we honored four Friends who have contributed their time, efforts, and most importantly their values and intellect to Quaker Heights: Byron Branson, Thomas Hill, Christine Snyder, and Horatio Wood. A quilt hangs near the Community Room as a reminder of their many years of service. Soon after the service we were grieved to hear of “Woody’s” death.

As always, the administrators and staff strive each day to “Make Love Visible Through Service” on behalf of our residents. Caring for fragile elders each day is a joy and an immense challenge. We are humbled by their good work and reinvigorated to support them.

Report in Advance

June 2009

Committee Members Byron Branson, Paul Buckley, Lisa Cayard, Betsy Neale (co-clerk), Wilson Palmer, Rex Sprouse (co-clerk).

Work of the committee and monthly meetings, 2008-2009 The Discipline Revision Committee held four day-long meetings in September, November, January, and May, each time at Community Friends meetinghouse. Paul Buckley, of North Meadow Circle of Friends, began a term of service on the committee this year.

Membership Section We remind Friends that the Membership Section has been divided into three parts during the review and revision process because it is such a long section. The part demarcations will not appear in the final publication of the section.

Parts 1 and 2 of the membership section were largely accepted for a year of seasoning by Friends at the 2008 annual sessions. Because there were concerns about the issue of dual membership, Membership (Part I), was revised following the 2008 annual sessions, restoring language about dual membership from an earlier draft of Part I. This revised version, Membership (Part I), 6th draft, was circulated to all monthly meetings in the fall of 2008 and published in the Quill for seasoning until the 2009 sessions. Membership (Part II), 4th draft, was published in the Minute Book of the 2008 annual sessions. These texts will be presented for final approval and adoption at the 2009 annual sessions.

Membership, (Part III), 3rd draft, which addresses the membership of children, was considered by monthly meetings in the fall. Responses were received from five monthly meetings. Based on the responses from monthly meeting and the committee's discernment, the text has been further edited. At the 2009 annual sessions, this revised version and will be presented for Friends' acceptance for a year of seasoning.

Seeking Harmony with Creation In February we distributed to monthly meetings a revised version of the text on concerns about the environment. Responses were received from six monthly meetings. The committee carefully considered the responses from monthly meetings and made further revisions to the text. At the annual sessions in July and August 2009, this revised text will also be presented to Friends for their acceptance for a year of seasoning.

In closing We thank Friends for their participation in the work of discipline revision during the past year. We look forward to a productive year in 2009-2010. Monthly meetings can again expect assignments, one for consideration between October 2009 and January 2010 and another for consideration between February and April 2010.

Note: Four draft documents are published below.

The first two documents, “Membership (Part III), 4th Draft,” and “Seeking Harmony with Creation, 6th Draft” are presented for Friends’ consideration for a year of seasoning before approval. If accepted for seasoning, these documents will be published in the 2009 OVYM Minute Book.

The third and fourth documents, Membership (Part I), Draft 6, and Membership (Part II), Draft 5, were published last fall for a year of seasoning. They are being presented at this year’s sessions for approval and adoption.

Youth membership

Friends’ communities rest on a principle of equality and on the worth of every individual. We value and welcome the young people who attend our meetings and participate in the lives of our communities. At the same time, our faith rests on deep personal and individual experience, and membership in the Religious Society of Friends and in a particular monthly meeting calls for a serious commitment. One person cannot make this commitment for another, and a caregiver cannot make this commitment for a young child. In order to accommodate both of these spiritual insights, Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting offers the following procedures, which recognize both youth membership and adult membership and outline a process for transition to adult membership. These procedures reflect Friends’ sense of loving concern and responsibility for children, as well as our belief in the value of raising children as part of a spiritual community.

Members who are parents or those with parental responsibility intending to bring up a child in accordance with Friends’ faith and practice may request youth membership for the child.

Monthly meetings may accept minor children as youth members at the request of one or both of their parents or guardians. The Committee for Ministry and Counsel should approach members who are new parents and parents requesting transfer of membership and ask if they would like to request youth membership for their children. Likewise, the membership clearness process for new members who are parents should include the children in the discussion of membership. When the monthly meeting accepts a child into youth membership, the child will also be considered a youth member of the relevant quarterly meeting and of Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting.

Children must ultimately make their own decision about adult membership. Youth members may request transition to adult membership at any time they feel ready to do so, by writing a simple letter to the Committee for Ministry and Counsel. Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting recommends that monthly meetings appoint membership clearness committees for youth members seeking transition to adult membership, following the same procedures set forth above for new membership.

To help prepare children for making this decision, the meeting should teach children about the meaning and responsibilities of membership. This process includes teaching children how to enter into waiting worship and how to participate in the Spirit-led Quaker business process, giving them opportunities to accept responsibilities such as participation on committees as they are able, and encouraging them to participate in youth groups associated with quarterly meetings, Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting, and Friends General Conference.

When parents or other adult Friends sense that a young person may be ready for adult membership, they should encourage the youth member to consider taking this step. The Committee for Ministry and Counsel should send a letter to each youth member around age 16, expressing appreciation for the young person's gifts and growing spiritual maturity and encouraging him or her to consider whether the time is right to request adult membership. Ministry and Counsel should continue to send letters to the youth member every two or three years between the ages of 16 and 25. The youth member should be asked to make a decision by his or her 25th birthday.

If a youth member has not requested adult membership by age 25, youth membership status ends, and the monthly meeting will minute that action. Should a youth member of any age inform the meeting that he or she does not wish to remain a member of the Religious Society of Friends, Ministry and Counsel is advised to seek discernment regarding the appropriate course of action in that individual case. However, if the youth member is clear about resignation, the monthly meeting will minute that the individual's youth membership has ended. These young people should be warmly assured that they are welcome to continue as active attenders, that they may at any time request membership, and that the meeting will continue to support them with loving care.

Seeking Harmony with Creation

6th Draft

Fifth Month 2, 2009

The Earth is the Lord's
and the fullness thereof,
The world and those who dwell therein.
(Psalm 24: 1)

Quakers have a long and deep history of respect for the Creation of which we are a part. The natural world is a wondrous manifestation of the Divine with the Power to nourish us physically and spiritually. William Penn articulated this faith-based concern for the Earth when he wrote, “how could Men find the Confidence to abuse [Creation], while they should see the Great Creator look them in the Face, in all and every Part thereof?” Likewise, John Woolman wrote, “To say we love God as unseen and at the same time to exercise cruelty toward the least creature moving by his life ... is a contradiction in itself.”

In 2002, Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting Friends found unity around the principle of sustainability as a basic standard for responsible living. Unsustainable use of the Earth's resources threatens the natural world and is incompatible with our testimonies. It is our responsibility to care for God's Creation. Individually, Friends are encouraged to examine their lives and take action to walk more lightly on the Earth, seeking harmony with Creation. Corporately, we are also called to act in ways that heal and protect the Earth.

Membership, (Part I)

6th Draft

Ninth Month 6, 2008

The meaning and responsibilities of membership

Membership in the Religious Society of Friends has been called an “outward sign of an inner experience of the living God and of unity with the other members of a living body” (Faith and Practice of New England Yearly Meeting of Friends, 1985, p. 235). Membership expresses a commitment to the Religious Society of Friends, founded on the belief that God is actively guiding the individual and the community of faith. Becoming a member expresses outwardly an inward leading toward spiritual enlightenment and growth. When a meeting accepts a person into membership, the meeting and the new member enter into a long-term spiritually based covenant relationship.

Membership entails several responsibilities including bearing faithful testimony to the guiding principles of the Religious Society of Friends and giving of one’s energy, time, and financial resources, as one is able. Members are expected to faithfully attend meeting for worship and meeting for business, and are encouraged to participate in quarterly and yearly meeting activities. Members should be willing to enter into a process of loving discernment with the meeting to seek where their gifts and talents can be most helpful. Such service may include pastoral care, religious education, witness to the broader community, or involvement in the broader Quaker world.

The role of attenders

There are those who manifest a continuing interest in the life of the meeting, but have not entered into formal membership. Friends welcome the participation of such active attenders in activities of the meeting, offer them guidance and instruction in Quakerism, and nurture their spiritual growth. Active attenders, nourished through their involvement with the meeting, familiar with and enriched by Friends’ basic beliefs and practices, and willing to undertake greater responsibilities within the meeting are encouraged to apply for membership.

Preparation for membership

Friends consider membership to be a serious relationship to be entered into after careful discernment. It is generally recommended that an individual considering application for membership attend meeting for worship and meeting for business regularly, seek service on a meeting committee, and undertake a personal study of Quaker faith and practice. Prospective applicants for membership need not delay application fearing they have not yet attained a particular level of spirituality. Becoming a member is intended to mark the beginning of a long-term commitment to a way of life, not its ultimate completion.

Application process

Those who desire to become members of the Religious Society of Friends should apply to the monthly meeting they attend by submitting a letter stating this request to the clerk of the Committee for Ministry and Counsel. The Committee will then appoint a clearness committee to meet with the applicant. The clearness committee should include one or more members of the Committee for Ministry and Counsel and may include other seasoned members of the meeting. The members of the committee will hold worshipful discussions with the applicant as often and for as long as necessary for all to reach unity regarding the rightness of the relationship and the readiness of the applicant for membership. During the clearness committee's deliberations, applications for membership should generally be treated as confidential.

After meeting with the candidate, the clearness committee reports its findings to the Committee for Ministry and Counsel. When clearness to move forward with an application is reached, the Committee for Ministry and Counsel should report the recommendation for membership to the next regularly appointed monthly meeting for business. The committee's report is to be recorded in a minute, but no action on the application is to be taken at that meeting for business. At this time Friends are encouraged to get to know the applicant if they have not done so earlier, and Friends who have questions or reservations about the applicant should explore these with the Committee for Ministry and Counsel. At the following regular monthly meeting for business, Friends should consider the application for membership and, if prepared to do so, should approve it, recording the action in a minute. The individual thereby becomes a member of the monthly meeting and of the quarterly and yearly meetings of which the monthly meeting is a constituent member. It is customary for Friends to appoint a committee to welcome the individual into membership.

If it becomes clear during the application process to the applicant, to the clearness committee, or to both that membership is not advisable or not advisable at this time, the application may be withdrawn. Friends are advised to respond lovingly to such applications, encouraging the applicant to continue attendance and participation in the life of the meeting.

Those whose applications are withdrawn may be led to reapply for membership at a later time. Membership itself is not as important as the spiritual growth of the prospective member.

Dual membership

Membership is a major commitment to participate in a particular community of Friends, and full participation in two religious bodies at once is usually impractical. Dual membership is generally discouraged. Except in unusual circumstances, a member of Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting belongs to a particular monthly meeting and should not hold full membership in another religious body, including another monthly meeting.

Membership (Part II)

5th Draft

Ninth Month 6, 2008

Sojourning membership

When Friends find themselves temporarily residing away from their home meeting, they may wish to be released from most of the usual responsibilities of membership in the home meeting and be willing to take on such responsibilities in their new location. Such Friends may ask their home meeting to issue a sojourning minute, which is then conveyed to the Clerk of the new meeting. Upon acceptance of the Friend as a Sojourning member, the Clerk of the new meeting will inform the Clerk of the home meeting. Sojourning members are considered fully participating members and may serve the new meeting in whatever ways are fitting. However, the primary financial responsibility of these members will remain with their home meeting, and they will also be counted in their home meeting's statistical report. Sojourning status ends when the Sojourner leaves and the Clerk of the new meeting notifies the home meeting. Friends who find that their stay is longer than two years should seriously consider transferring their membership.

Transfer of membership

It is recommended that a member who moves away from his or her monthly meeting seek a new meeting where he or she can assume full responsibilities of membership. When such a meeting is found, the Friend will ask the home meeting to issue a certificate of transfer. Upon verifying that the applicant is a member, the home meeting's Committee for Ministry and Counsel brings the request before the monthly meeting for approval. Once issued, the certificate of transfer is conveyed to the Clerk of the new monthly meeting, where it should be referred to the Committee for Ministry and Counsel for review. When prepared to do so, the Committee for Ministry and Counsel brings forward the request to the monthly meeting. Upon approval, the Friend is recorded as a member of the new meeting, and the other meeting is notified of this action. Until this is done, the Friend remains a member of the other meeting. The new monthly meeting should appoint one or more Friends to welcome the transferred member.

Termination of membership

Membership in the Religious Society of Friends can be terminated in cases of (a) resignation, (b) loss of interest in membership, or (c) disownment, each of which is explained below. Termination of membership becomes effective only when a record to this effect is made in the minutes of the monthly meeting of which that person is a member. One whose membership has been discontinued and who desires to be reinstated may be received into membership in accordance with the procedure for admitting new members.

(a) Resignation

A member wishing to resign his or her membership should address a letter of resignation to the Clerk of the monthly meeting. The Clerk should refer the letter to the Committee for Ministry and Counsel. Normally, a resignation should not be accepted until after a visit (or exchange of correspondence) to inquire sensitively into the matter. If the member does not reconsider, the Committee for Ministry and Counsel should report this to the meeting, and the meeting should release that Friend from membership. The Clerk should inform the former member in writing of the action.

(b) Loss of interest in membership

Membership entails participation in the life of one's monthly meeting as a spiritual community. Meetings and their members share a mutual commitment to each other's spiritual wellbeing. When Friends become concerned about a member who has not attended meeting for worship or communicated with the meeting, the Committee for Ministry and Counsel should contact him or her, expressing the meeting's care and loving concern. Friends should seek through the grace of God and the spirit of divine love to restore this Friend to regular fellowship with the community and to provide assistance and support, if possible. In some cases, it may be necessary for Friends to approach the individual repeatedly. If, after sincere and diligent effort, restoration of interest in the meeting is unsuccessful, the monthly meeting may adopt a minute removing him or her from membership. The meeting should, if possible, inform the individual of this action.

(c) Disownment

A member whose conduct or publicly expressed views repeatedly undermine Friends' testimonies should be labored with lovingly and patiently for as long as there is reasonable hope of restoring unity with the fellowship. No judgment should be placed hastily or in the spirit of condemnation. Monthly meetings, however, have authority to record a minute of disunity with such a person's actions.

In rare and exceptional circumstances, the meeting also has the authority to terminate a person's membership through disownment. This process begins when the Committee for Ministry and Counsel brings forward to the monthly meeting a minute justifying a recommendation of disownment. If the monthly meeting agrees to proceed with the recommendation, the member should be promptly notified of the charges in writing and should be given an opportunity to present his or her case to the meeting at a called meeting for business devoted exclusively to this matter. The monthly meeting should assure itself that all possible steps to aid the member's return to unity with the meeting have been taken, remembering that all persons are subject to error and that love and forgiveness may restore unity. After careful consideration, but without undue delay, the meeting may approve a minute terminating membership. In that case, a copy of the minute should be delivered to the individual along with notification of the right to appeal. A disowned person is released from the rights and responsibilities of membership; however, disownment does not mean a severing of all relationship between the meeting and the disowned person. Friends are encouraged to treat this person with loving kindness.

Appeals

If anyone believes that the monthly meeting has rendered an unjust judgment against him or her, that person may appeal to the quarterly meeting. The individual making the appeal should promptly notify the Clerk of the quarterly meeting and the Clerk of the monthly meeting. The quarterly meeting is then to refer the case to a suitable committee, excluding Friends from the monthly meeting involved. The monthly meeting should appoint a committee to represent it in the appeals process and should provide the quarterly meeting's appeals committee with copies of all minutes having a bearing on the case. The appeals committee should meet with both parties, prayerfully consider the case, and report its recommendation to the following quarterly meeting. The quarterly meeting shall consider the recommendation, confirm or reverse the original judgment, or return the case to the monthly meeting for further consideration. Care should be taken to inform the person making the appeal and the monthly meeting of the decision, either of which, if dissatisfied, may appeal to the Yearly Meeting for further hearing. In the case of such an appeal, the Yearly Meeting shall in like manner refer the appeal to a suitable committee, excluding Friends from the quarterly meeting involved. This committee shall meet with the individual and representatives from the monthly meeting and the quarterly meeting, have access to all relevant minutes, and make a recommendation to the Yearly Meeting. The Yearly Meeting will then uphold or reverse the original decision, and Yearly Meeting's decision will be final. At either level of appeal, parties may agree to accept the judgment of the appeals committee and not bring the matter before the entire meeting body.

Quaker Quill Report

Being editor of the Quaker Quill is rather like being the mason that builds a dry stone wall. I have been given the plan, the history of the Quaker Quill, the stone, the copy that many of you have given, and a place to build, the community of Friends. There are the usual problems, opportunities for solutions, where careful, patient craftsmanship transcends.

It is inspiring to see the hard, long and earnest work of the community Friends intended for good and care full ends. It would give me satisfaction that the Quaker Quill of the Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting reflects the enterprise of this community of Friends.

OVYM Religious Education Committee Report 2009

Diann Herzog, Clerk Rex Sprouse, Marjorie McKelvey Isaacs, Richard Mitchell

The RE Committee seems to have found our way forward as a service committee, responding to needs and requests rather than initiating activity. We have taken responsibility for FAP (Friendly Adult Presence) training at OVYM sessions and are also available to conduct this training at Quarterly and Monthly Meetings. We have been responding to requests for workshops, retreats and visitation. The members of the RE Committee have a diversity of gifts to share and are available and ready to share them in the spirit of love and service.

Advancement and Nurture Committee Report

We have devoted our time and energy as a committee during the past year in a period of discernment of the call for our committee and in listening to each other. We have listened to those on the committee as well as those guests who have joined us. Meetings have taken place in person and via electronic mail and a conference call. Our sense is that there is a role for an Advancement and Nurture committee in the yearly meeting, but that it will probably look different than it did as initially formulated. It will probably be a smaller committee that makes greater use of communications media that require less travel.

At our initial meeting, we decided that the theme for our work this year to be listening for where God is calling us to serve the spiritual needs for the yearly meeting. We decided to meet again in late winter. At that meeting, we discussed what role that our committee might play in encouraging and enabling spiritual formation groups and other growth activities in and among our constituent monthly meetings. We also decided to invite monthly meeting clerks and ministry and counsel clerks to meet with us in May for a time of sharing ideas that excite and also those concerns that are serving as frustrations as we seek a way forward for Friends to address the spiritual needs of our age.

The above-mentioned meeting took place and we experience a day of deep sharing and heard much that excites Friends. We have work to do and we need the time and energy of individuals, communities, and committees to accomplish it. There are hopeful things taking place that show growth in both numbers and deepening worship. We choose not be discouraged by what is at this moment a small committee, but feel called to continue our work. Those who share our call to a work in the spiritual growth and nurture in OVYM and invited to consider joining the Advancement and Nurture Committee.

FCNL Annual Meeting
November 13 – 16, 2008
Washington, D.C.

More than 200 Quakers from about 40 states, representing 26 yearly meetings, gathered in the nation's capital for the Friends Committee on National Legislation annual meeting to approve its legislative priorities and plan strategies for promoting that agenda in the 111th Congress. Frank Huss, Mary Anne Curtiss, Ken Bordwell, Ron and Jane Haldeman, and Paul Kriese represented Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting.

Prior to the opening of the annual meeting, approximately 60 Quakers gathered at the FCNL offices on Capitol Hill to participate in lobby day. There was training in the morning, then Quakers visited one or more of their legislators' offices. The topic of the lobbying this year was engaging with Iran. Frank, Mary Anne, and Ken met with Matt Ortman, Sen. George Voinovich's foreign policy aide. They then dropped into Sen. Sherrod Brown's office and left materials concerning the wisdom of sitting down with Iran. Paul Kriese had met with Congressman Mike Pence prior to Lobby Day.

The speaker on Thursday night, veteran White House correspondent Helen Thomas, cautioned that the press and the public must remain vigilant and engaged with government to ensure that real change takes place.

On Friday night, author and journalist Barbara Slavin reviewed the history of missed opportunities for improving relations between the U.S. and Iran and talked about the importance of people in the United States understanding Iran's perspective.

Slavin and Rep. Wayne Gilchrest of Maryland, who received the Edward F. Snyder Award for National Legislative Leadership, both noted FCNL's key role in preventing Congress from passing legislation that effectively called for a more complete embargo on Iran, a step both said would have increased tensions to even more dangerous levels. Gilchrest urged members of the audience to continue their work to promote dialogue with Iran and to address climate change.

Among the specific results of the gathering were the following:

- Participants agreed to lobby new and returning members of Congress to begin the long-term work of reducing military spending and shifting resources to education, health care, and energy conservation;
- In FCNL's 65th year, the Friends gathered this weekend set a goal of organizing 65 house parties to talk about FCNL's work and urge financial contributions. For our meeting, Mary Anne Curtiss will be hosting one- stay tuned for further details.

“Well, good, now it's all done but the work.”

Annual Meeting

OVYM appointees to the AFSC corporation, Tom Bennett (Community), Phyllis Martin (Bloomington) and Jana Schroeder (Clear Creek), along with AFSC board member Marcy Wenzler (Bloomington) attended the AFSC annual meeting in Philadelphia in November 2008. We felt especially informed, inspired and moved by:

A dramatization of voices of people in the U.S. who have been affected by the war in Iraq, especially veterans and the families of current soldiers, veterans and those killed in the war, which have been collected during listening projects conducted in conjunction with the Eyes Wide Open exhibit as it has toured Pennsylvania.

A presentation by the new staff person to direct the resumption of program work in Somalia which was halted in 2003 due to danger to staff and community partners. The program will focus on humanitarian relief and peacebuilding efforts. The presentation was delivered over a speaker phone from Kenya because the staff person was unable to obtain a visa due to the national holiday taken by Kenyans in celebration of the election of Barack Obama.

Discussion of “A Roadmap for Peace,” organized around five core principles for bringing about a more peace-oriented U.S. foreign policy. The roadmap was developed by over 30 peace and religious groups with key leadership from the AFSC Washington office and QUNO and endorsed by thousands of groups and individuals. The full roadmap can be accessed at www.roadmapforpeace.org. The five core principles are:

1. Our nation should invest in peace.
2. Strengthen the civilian agencies that work on peace and development issues.
3. Give diplomacy a chance.
4. Be a part of global peacebuilding efforts.
5. Create justice through good development and trade policies.

Current Financial Situation

The following is excerpted from documents provided by AFSC to corporation members to help interpret AFSC’s current, serious financial situation.

AFSC is experiencing the direct impact of the global financial crisis. We have seen significant declines in donations from our supporters and our reserves have seriously eroded. AFSC must prepare for an extensive period of economic downturn. Recovery of the economy, when it occurs, does not mean AFSC can quickly revert to a larger budget size. Contributions are likely to lag one to two years, and the organization's reserves must be built back up to prudent levels. This means that in the next few years, AFSC can only plan to spend what we can realistically expect to raise in new revenues.

Managing this uncertain period of time is both a governance and staff responsibility, and decisions must be thoroughly analyzed and seasoned. With the guidance of AFSC's Board and Regional Executive Committees, and consultation with Staff across regions and the central office, we are committed to building a sustainable organization that will be leaner – perhaps half its current size. The Board will review various scenarios and provide further directions at its June 2009 meeting, with a final decision for the coming fiscal year by September 2009.

Is AFSC still solvent? Absolutely. However, our financial flexibility has been seriously affected and we must take action to scale back in the immediate term and build a platform for a renewed organization for the future. We must contract in size and scope and focus on what we do particularly well, so that AFSC will not only survive but thrive to do the work the world needs us to do into our 100th year and beyond.

What can Friends do to help?

- Spread the good word of the works and mission of AFSC. Friends have been historically some of our most effective ambassadors to new or current donors.
- Be willing to speak about your support for AFSC at events, or in a newsletter. It isn't necessary to say how much one has given, but to convey why and how important you see AFSC's work in the world.
- Write an editorial or find other ways to raise AFSC's visibility.
- Pass on any leads for funding that you might be aware of.

Proposed Change in Timing of AFSC Annual Meeting

A proposal to change the AFSC annual meeting from November to March is currently being seasoned. If approved, there would be an 18-month gap between the annual meeting in November 2009 and the next annual meeting in March 2011. The By-Law Revision working Group provided the following rationale for this suggested change.

For a number of reasons, the November Board meeting is ill-suited for the deliberation of financial matters. It is a short meeting that lasts less than a full day and takes place after two days of the Corporation meeting. In addition, many of the Board members are new and may be unfamiliar with issues of concern for the AFSC.

The Finance Committee considered this problem, and recommended that the AFSC change its meeting calendar to better meet the needs of its financial planning schedule. In its current planning cycle, the November meeting is a critical meeting where organizational and unit targets are approved. A full three-day meeting with experienced members will greatly aid the consideration of these matters.

As a result, the Finance Committee has requested that the AFSC move the Corporation meeting to March and have new terms for AFSC Board members begin at the March meeting. This will result in a more focused and more experienced Board deliberating on the important financial matters that are part of the November agenda.

The By-law Revision Working Group has asked that questions, advice and concerns be forwarded to them by August 21. please share any thoughts with an OVYM-appointed corporation member who will convey all feedback to the working group. The anticipated timeline is as follows.

September Board meeting	Bring Draft 2 of the Revisions with a request for action
Nov. Corporation meeting	Present recommendations for revisions, as approved by the September board for Corporation approval.

Epistle to Friends Everywhere

Dear Friends,

The American Friends Service Committee sends warm greetings to Friends everywhere.

For more than 90 years, day in and day out, AFSC has cooperated with Friends around the world to work against violence, destruction, and discrimination.

Throughout the past year, Friends everywhere have been pointing to a path that will foster real security for all people. Together, we have nourished hope for a better world. The challenges are many, and we are called to do much. We want to take this time to recognize our joint accomplishments in the past year.

Though we write this greeting in troubled times, we believe hope abounds:

We continue to work to end the war and build the peace in Iraq through nationwide vigils, advocacy, lending a hand to Iraqi refugees, and prayers. With the touring Eyes Wide Open and Cost of War exhibits, which rely on a partnership between AFSC local staff and dozens of Friends' volunteers, we have brought attention to the heavy human and financial cost of the war.

With the help of 10,000 signatories and a few dozen partner organizations, we delivered the Roadmap for Peace, our principles to guide a new foreign policy, to the Obama transition team in January and engaged in a productive conversation about resetting the U. S. approach to foreign affairs. For the first time in many years, we have access to the president and the opportunity for ongoing dialogue.

To create a fair and humane response to the economic crisis, we made thousands of phone calls to Congress to put families first and pass an economic stimulus package that follows the Quaker values of simplicity, equality, and the belief in the worth of every individual. Our advocacy, hand-in-hand with other faith, labor, women's, and many other groups produced so many calls that we overloaded the Congressional switchboard.

Our staff has worked to help families stay afloat and communities to build a fair, prosperous, and sustainable economy in the U.S. and around the world. We stand together to stop the economic exploitation of the weak. A few examples:

- In Cleveland and in Akron, Ohio, AFSC staff continues to lead public campaigns to ask the sheriff to stop home foreclosures.
- In Koh Kong Province of Cambodia, our staff members work with local communities to support fisheries and help people secure their livelihoods.
- In Postville, Iowa, and around the U. S., AFSC partners with immigrant communities to protect the rights of all workers and to keep families together in the face of home and workplace raids by immigration enforcement agents,
- In Zimbabwe, AFSC helps people displaced by violence build new homes, restore their livelihoods, and speak up for their rights.

On the international stage, we've served as an example of using dialogue and discussion to resolve conflict and prevent violence. We engaged the Iranian people and their president in a dialogue with U. S. religious leaders, fostered dialogue between the U. S. Congress and Iraqi Parliamentarians, and engaged in people-to-people diplomacy with China to help shape a new bilateral peace movement. Our digital storytelling project in Baltimore brought together a far-flung Somali Bantu refugee diaspora (see the stories at www.afsc.org/SomaliBantu). A community theater project in Pittsburgh opened the way for Christian, Muslim, and Jewish Israelis to discuss their differences and commonalities. We find time and again that after engaging in dialogue, people can resolve their differences and find it harder to see each other merely as enemies.

AFSC, with Friends' involvement and support, has hosted life-transforming opportunities for youth, including popular summer work programs in China and Mexico. In communities across the country, our staff has counseled young people on the truth about military recruitment. In support of this effort, our recent It's My Life! guide to alternatives to military service, based on the work of North Carolina Friends, has been distributed to hundreds of schools, libraries, and guidance counselors nationwide. Each young person who finds an alternative career to the military is a life possibly saved.

Also this year, the Service Committee and Friends reached out to those struck by natural and human-made calamities. For refugees in war-torn areas as disparate as the Democratic Republic of Congo and Iraq, AFSC staff distributed needed humanitarian supplies and worked to heal the wounds of war. In Gaza, AFSC staff and partners helped supply a hospital to help civilians caught in a conflict zone. And in Burma/Myanmar, AFSC staff and community partners helped feed and educate impoverished children after spring 2008's cyclone and flooding.

Yes, these are troubled times. Our world is suffering from a global recession, seven major wars, and many other violent conflicts. Millions of families around the world are mourning the loss of their loved ones, struggling to put food on the table, and many have been driven from their homes by violence or loss of income.

Those troubles make our work for peace, justice, and human dignity take on even greater importance.

We thank all Friends and our partners around the world for their ongoing support and perseverance. Our message and work – our hope – are needed now more than ever. Together, we will continue to take vital steps toward the better world we all seek.

In peace,

Peace & Social Concern Committee Report

7/1/08 – 6/30/09

Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting's Peace & Social Concerns Committee (PSCC) endeavors to help Friends and Friends Meetings in Indiana, Kentucky, and Ohio live up to our testimonies on peace, simplicity, and equality and our evolving testimonies on a sustainable planet. We do this through education among Friends and witness to others.

Our committee does its work through the main committee and three subcommittees: the Earth Care Witness Committee (ECWC), the Healthcare Reform Concerns Committee, and a Testimonies Committee.

A proposed minute "Seeking Right Relationship with Food and Land" has been a major focus of the ECWC work during the year. The minute has been considered by many monthly meetings and both quarterly meetings. Some bodies have adopted the minute. Other bodies have forwarded suggestions for changes and/or objections. The committee will be considering the feedback and will rewrite the minute. ECWC also planned a table on local/sustainable foods for the 2009 YM Sessions.

Our Healthcare Reform Subcommittee has been inactive during the year. To invigorate this subcommittee, we will convene an interest group on healthcare reform during the 2009 YM Sessions.

We are in process of recruiting members to the Testimonies subcommittee. This subcommittee will prayerfully consider each of our testimonies and ask: 1) how does the testimony speak to us today and 2) does our current condition suggest new insights regarding the testimony? They will share insights and queries with OVYM meetings and individual Friends. Since 2010 is the 350th anniversary of the Peace Testimony, the committee plans to begin its project with the Peace Testimony. Friends who are interested in serving on the Testimonies subcommittee are urged to contact subcommittee convener Ron Haldeman.

OVYM Advanced Reports 2009

During the 2008 sessions, the PSCC presented a workshop “Searching for Peace Between Israel & Palestine.” In the workshop, we showed parts of Landrum Bolling’s video “Searching for Peace in the Middle East.” The video was followed by comments from members of a four-person panel who have traveled or worked in the Middle East, including, Michael McConnell from the Chicago AFSC office, Anna Lisa Gross from Richmond’s Church of the Brethren, and OVYM Friends Jane Haldeman and Jane Stone. During Yearly Meeting sessions we held interest groups, maintained a display table, and showed videos on numerous issues. We proposed two minutes that were adopted by the Yearly Meeting in session (No. 70; Minutes of the 188th Sessions OVYM): 1) Minute Regarding Cluster Bombs and 2) Minute Regarding Potential Attack on Iran and Escalation in Afghanistan.

During the year the Committee shared information by email and phone calls and met once via a conference call. Throughout the year, we continued our program of sending monthly meetings videos to be used for religious education regarding a sustainable planet, peace, and social justice. For the 2009 Sessions, we planned a pre-session workshop “Making Peace a Personal Way of Life.” David Hartsough and Marge Nelson will lead this workshop.

Peace & blessings,

OVYM Representative: Marcia K. Ankrom

The Fall Quaker Earthcare Steering Committee and Annual Gathering was held at the Calvin Conference Center in Hampton Georgia. I served on Spiritual Nurturance and Sustainability: Faith and Action committees. The theme for the Gathering was: What do Friends have to offer to the "Great Awakening". We spent most of our time in five Plenary Sessions as follows.

Plenary Session #1: Our deepest spiritual aspiration, nourished by the contemplative tradition, the "new cosmology", and the wisdom tradition of Christianity. By Mary Coelho Plenary Session #2: Ways that Jesus practiced land-based spirituality and ways that ecology has shaped our tradition by Steven Davison.

Plenary Session #3: How modern science enriches my sense of Spirit, or the Light Within by Bill Cahalan.

Plenary Session #4 Friends' faith and practice, Friends' process and spiritual unification by Eric Maya Joy.

Plenary Session #5: Friends as a force of nature: Bringing forth Friends' highest visions for establishing right relationship with earth by Angela Manno.

After each session we met in groups of six or eight members and had a discussion of each topic in the form of queries. These sessions helped me to get to know other Friends better, helped me to experience nature more fully, and feel the presence of God without and within. My most memorable time was walking around the labyrinth surrounded by casts of small hand prints. The Spring Quaker Earthcare Witness Steering Committee Annual Meeting is held at the Cenacle Retreat and Conference Center in Lincoln Park Chicago, Illinois.

Each business session was opened by a member of the Spiritual Nurturance Committee read a poem or other writings concerning the earth. Our committee is continually evaluating what our charge is in caring for spiritual health of the meeting and each individual present. This session our committee offered two minutes to be considered:

1. QEW recognizes the Light within all creation.
2. QEW recognizes Eric Maya Joy's leading and ministry regarding "spiritual unification", which includes Friends' process as a unique and significant gift.

We also requested that a new working group be formed within QEW's organization where Friends can explore together topics such as the New Story, indigenous spiritual concepts, and other kinds of thought that are less traditional among Friends. The Ad Hoc Committee presented the first reading of a draft of QEW's purpose statement: Grounded in Friends process and our love for the Earth, QEW supports and connects Friends carrying a concern for living in right relationship with all creation and helping bring forth a peaceful, just, and sustainable world." Sustainability: Faith and Action Working Group discussed the use of funds to offset carbon emissions. In the past this was estimated to be about $300 for each of the two annual meetings. This money has been donated to Native Energy. Sustainability: Faith and Action Working Group has decided to add funds to the QEW Mini Grant program which has increased from $1000 to $2000 to be given in $250 amounts to Meetings requesting funds to help them be more Earth friendly. Meetings are required to give a matching amount to their project. Bloomington Monthly Meeting continues to find ways to lessen our impact on Mother Earth. We have turned a shed into a Garden Cottage, made from mostly from recycled materials, to be used for a First Day School class room, have a garden plot planted by First Day School members with adult help, are in the process of purchasing blinds to make our Meeting more energy efficient, and replacing wiring so we can purchase a solar panel to provide some of our own electricity. Also, we are investigating earth friendly sidewalk materials to be installed in front of the Meetinghouse. We recently received a QEW Mini Grant to be used to purchase an Energy Star refrigerator. Some of our Earthcare committee members are active in community organizations working to have a "greener" Bloomington.

Friends Music Camp Report

Friends Music Camp will meet for its 30th session when staff and campers gather at the Olney Friends School campus from July 5 through August 2. The campers come from 17 states and 4 foreign countries: Costa Rica (from the Friends community there), Canada, Spain and Japan. Two thirds of the campers are returning; a third are new.

A visiting speaker this year will be Ben Griffith from our Yearly meeting. He will share his amazing personality and thoughts on the death penalty at his presentation.

Positive feedback from campers and their parents continues. It is almost always about the musical growth and enlarging of musical experience; and about the caring, supportive Friends community which makes campers report, "I can be my true self at FMC. And I made lifelong friends."

Challenging this season has been raising sufficient funds to provide scholarships for all who need financial help to attend FMC. As one might expect, due to the economic times we are experiencing, the need for scholarship help is much greater this year. We are very grateful to Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting, many monthly meetings and individuals from the yearly meeting--and elsewhere--for help in raising these scholarship funds.

Directorship of Friends Music Camp is shared by Peg Champney of Yellow Springs Friends Meeting, and Drea Gallaga and Nick Hutchinson of Chicago.

OVYM Young Adult Friends Report

It has been an interesting year for me working with the Young Adult Friends. We noticed during an interest group at the previous Yearly Meeting that there is no program for YAFs in OVYM, and also that we feel we would benefit from spending time with Friends who are in the same transitional stage of life that we are. While we were unable to implement a plan to get some programming geared specifically towards our age range, we were able to schedule and attend a few retreats throughout the year.

The first of these was in December, at the home of Newell Pledger-Shinn and his wife Jennie Isbell. There were seven of us in attendance; we thank them for their hospitality and especially for Jennie's cooking skills. This retreat was spent in brainstorming and laying some groundwork for future retreats. We nominated Howie Baker as provisional clerk and Nick Rhein as provisional treasurer, with the understanding that we would appoint someone at Yearly Meeting to fill these roles for the coming year. We also worshipped outdoors and enjoyed each other's company in song, yoga, cooking, and card games. We sent a letter of endorsement with myself to an ecumenical conference being held in San Francisco in January.

The second retreat was held in March at Community Friends Meetinghouse in Cincinnati, Ohio. Twelve of us attended; much thanks to Community Friends for their hospitality. We continued our experimentation with communal cooking and heard a report from myself on the ecumenical conference I attended; I will be more than happy to discuss it with any who ask. We also put on a talent show for Community Friends and enjoyed each other's company.

The third retreat was held in May at Brown County State Park. We thank Bloomington Friends for granting us use of their meetinghouse if the weather had turned nasty; fortunately for us, it didn't. We enjoyed relaxing in the sun and taking in the natural beauty of God's good creation, as well as taking in some excellent food cooked over the coals of our campfire. We worked with the Friends at Mt. Gilead Retreat Center just outside of Bloomington on the betterment of their site. Seven of us attended this retreat.

I am hopeful that these retreats will continue into next year, with four or five of them between OVYM Sessions in 2009 and in 2010. It has been a challenge to organize these events, and while I have much to learn I've also learned a fair amount that will facilitate getting people my age together. The concern for programs specific to YAFs in the Yearly Meeting still remains. I would point out that most people who become convinced Friends become so convinced either in college or shortly thereafter, in the very age range that OVYM currently neglects. One common concern among recently convinced Friends was the lack of opportunities for YAFs who are new to Quakerism to observe Quakers their own age in action. While we value the advice of our elders, there is a broad cultural gap between our computerized generation and the flower children of the sixties, and books on historical Quakers simply don't cut it for some of us. Our faith needs to be strengthened by fellowship. Perhaps as fellowship builds we will develop our own ministries, and our own leadings will give us direction—this is my prayer.

I submit this report for your consideration.

Howie Baker,

Provisional Clerk of OVYM YAFs.

Youth Secretary Advance Report

The Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting teen program is thriving. Larger numbers of teens are regularly attending retreats and the wider teen community (including parents and many monthly meetings) have come together to help fundraise for the Alaska Spirit Camp.

This year, the teens participated in three weekend retreats (including retreats at Joint Quarterly in October; Fall Creek Friends Meeting in November; and, Louisville Friends Meeting in February), as well as a four-day service trip in Dayton, Ohio. And, a group of nine teens have just returned from the Alaska Spirit Camp, a two-week wilderness adventure jointly coordinated by Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting and Alaska Friends Conference (our unprogrammed Quaker counterparts in Alaska).

The focus of our retreats has largely been on developing a better understanding of Quaker spirituality, a topic that teens requested during last years' Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting sessions. To help engage the teens, young adult Friends, and the wider OVYM community at Joint Quarterly, I coordinated a spiritual autobiography activity and sharing period. We wrestled with issues of Quakers and non-violence while at Fall Creek, and led a spiritual fishbowl activity at Louisville (with queries developed by the teens). This all culminates in the spiritually challenging (and intense!) camp experience in the Alaskan wilderness this summer, as our teens continue to develop their Quaker spirituality and gain more leadership experience.

After much discernment, it has become clear to me that I need to return to Philadelphia and complete my Earlham School of Religion degree from afar. Unfortunately, this also means that I am unable to move forward in renewing a full-year contract with Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting. I will continue with my contract through August 31, 2009. I am very grateful for the opportunity to work with the OVYM teens. They are thoughtful, caring, inquisitive and hardworking. Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting is truly blessed to have such a great group of teens.

Respectfully submitted,

Lauren Baumann

Teen Committee Report
Advance Report 2009

After a decade of visits, conversations, and missed opportunities, the teen trip to Alaska became a reality. Nine of our teens joined a group from Alaska Friends Conference in July for three weeks of service, wilderness experience and intervisitation with Alaskan Friends. The group of our teens was younger than we initially expected, as many of our older teens were unable to participate because of jobs and preparing for college. The six members of the programming team included our youth secretary Lauren Bauman and five Alaskans with diverse experience in the wilderness and leading spiritual retreats with younger Friends. In addition, an elder traveled with the group to provide spiritual grounding, participating in the community holding the staff and teens in the Light. Other Alaskan Friends worked on logistics. A subcommittee of the Teen Committee spent considerable time addressing some sensitive issues, but with the assistance of the OVYM Clerk and Assistant Clerk, and the Middle Youth Committee, we felt confident as we went forward.

As of 6/1/2009, the budget estimations by Alaskan Friends suggested that our preliminary budget was accurate. We should not exceed the total of $20,100 approved by executive committee last year ($6,000 from OVYM budget, 9,600 from fundraising with any shortfall guaranteed by the Yearly Meeting, and $500 per teen from each family). As of 6/1 we had raised $7198 from appeals to meetings and fundraisers and hope to have other events this summer and fall. We owe a profound debt for the contributions of time and money from individuals, Monthly Meetings and Quarterly Meetings that made the trip possible.

The ages of the teens traveling to Alaska reflects a shift in the teen group as a whole, as we welcomed a large group of middle youth who moved up this year. In addition to working on the Alaskan trip, we held three teen retreats and a short service trip. In the fall, teens met at Joint Quarterly Meeting in October and at Fall Creek Friends Meeting for a work weekend in November. At Joint Quarter, six teens heard from David Wood about his travels in Alaska and participated in the Young Adult Friends program on spiritual journeys. We also played games and enjoyed singing, stories and worship around a bonfire. At Fall Creek, the afternoon was spent clearing the Indian trail that is on the edge of the cemetery and meeting house land. The six teens had a powerful discussion around the bonfire and later that night regarding violence in the schools and security measures such as cameras and police officers in their high school.

In February, eight teens met for an overnight at Louisville Meeting during Miami Quarterly Meeting. The retreat started with a Bible study on Adam and Eve in the afternoon and after dinner the group participated in the Urban Goatwalker Coffee House open mic night, which makes an effort to include homeless and mentally ill performers and listeners. One of our teens, Chie Togami, regularly volunteers and performs at the open mic night. The teens wrote questions for a fishbowl intergenerational discussion on Quaker spirituality held on First Day.

Because of the Alaska trip, our usual week-long service trip was shortened and was held locally. Eight teens met in Dayton in June for a long weekend of service and learning about sustainable eating and local immigration issues. We worked side by side with Burundian men, women and children to build a compost bin and spread manure and mulch on their a community garden in Dayton. An impromptu football game with the refugee children was a highlight for many. We also worshipped with Friends at the historic Miami Meetinghouse before visiting Friend Milton Cook's organic farm in Waynesville, where his family has lived for over 200 years. We also mulched, weeded and staked tomatoes at "God's Garden," which grows organic vegetables for food pantries, talked about sustainability with Bill Cahalan of OVYM's Earthcare Witness sub-committee, and met with Julie Arias of AFSC to learn about her work with African and Iraqi refugees resettling in Dayton. We reflected on how we might become more rooted in the places we live, while becoming more aware of how others are involuntarily displaced.

In all, 18 teens from seven monthly meetings participated in events this year, and nine adults volunteered as Friendly Adult Presences. Adult volunteers are integral to the success of our community. Following guidelines established by executive committee last year, we continue to perform background checks on volunteers who stay overnight at events. The youth secretary set up an account on Flickr where pictures from teen activities are posted. The URL is Flickr.com/photos/ovymteens.

We are planning for OVYM sessions. We expect our group will be smaller this year because the teens will be returning from Alaska trip the day before sessions begin. At our February meeting, we decided that Lauren Bauman would be the adult to accompany the group to Alaska, and thus we would put greater responsibility on Nick Rhein of Community Meeting to help plan and facilitate the teen group during the sessions.

Youth Secretary Lauren Baumann has submitted her resignation as of the end of Eighth Month, 2009 and plans to return to Philadelphia for an internship and to be near family. We thank Lauren for her service and recognize her enrichment of the programming for the teens and her planting of seeds for the future. At the advice of the Personnel Committee, the job of youth secretary became a contractual position rather than an hourly position this year, which makes it easier to accommodate the longer hours the secretary tends to work in the summer months.

Middle Youth Committee Report

In last year's report, we said that "our work for the year is usually centered on planning sessions for middle youth activities." Frequently, Yearly Meeting hears about the canoe and bike trips. Given the amount of physical energy the youth possess, these remain important, and we are extremely grateful for all the spiritual and financial support we receive from OVYM. However, we want you to know, too, that we have found ourselves through the years, but particularly lately, asking ourselves as we plan: "What makes this gathering of middle youth a Quaker gathering?"

It is a commonplace to hear about how busy we are in this 21st century, and how over-scheduled are our children. They have lots of choices for entertainment and activity. Our goal must be to ask ourselves: "Where is the spiritual component in what we can offer that our youth may not get elsewhere?" We have found answers to these questions in our quest to be mindful by creating intentional space for our time together. We aim to bring to the middle youth the Quaker practices of worship sharing and the doing of business where—surprise—decisions are not reached by a vote of the majority. Cultural imperatives regarding the strongest and most charismatic personalities winning sway are strong, and our press to push back at them meets with varying success.

As adults, we also learn to listen to the youth concerns with respect, if not always agreement. We are challenged to make expectations clear, and we continue to learn as we go. We particularly appreciate all the Friendly Adult Presences who are willing to help out in numerous ways: accompanying the youth, offering wisdom and inspiration and simple presence. This year we've benefited from Young Adult Friends as staff and presenters who demonstrate a Quakerism that is adult while not being parental.

In our programming, this past year, 14 Middle Youth joined us for Yearly Meeting sessions: this was a record for attendance in recent memory. During the year the numbers were considerably smaller, but continuing programming during the intervening months remains a goal of ours. Five Middle Youth met during Joint Quarterly meeting at Happy Hollow, and in February, 4 Middle Youth, along with the Teens, met at Louisville Meeting during Miami Quarterly session for fellowship and fun. They were joined by young Friends from Burundi who are now at Louisville Meeting.

At each of these sessions, we've been blessed by having adult Friends share -- stories of their work, their leadings and experience so that our Middle Youth have the opportunity to know a wide variety of Friends. As we say goodbye to some of our faithful Middle Youth participants (including 3 of our sons) moving up to the Teen Group, we welcome new youth; and the circle continues.

FWCC Advance Report

The annual sessions of FWCC-SOA were held this year in Canby OR with the theme of The Vision is for its appointed time from Habakkuk 2:2-3. This was an appropriate theme because FWCC-SOA continues to work to find ways to bring the organization's vision into the world while facing the realities of financial constraints. FWCC-SOA continues to operate under a deficit and we realize that this is not sustainable. To this end we have a committee FRPIC (Fiscally Responsible Program Implementation Com.) actively working to restructure the organization, so that it can perform its mission and stay within our income. The goal is to present a balanced budget within the next couple of years.

Because of the deficit, last year FWCC-SOA made the difficult decision to lay off some of their staff, but we are happy to report that over the last year all the staff that were let go have landed on their feet, with continued employment offering both spiritual and professional growth.

In the midst of this reorganization FWCC continues to inspire and to offer excitement for the future of Quakerism. Of particular interest at annual sessions were the presentations from the local Friends churches and meetings. Freedom Friends Church shared their experiences as an unaffiliated, evangelical yet not fundamentalist church. Their motto is "Hold On! Let Go!" and they presented a form of Quaker worship that stretches the boundaries of all affiliated Friends groups. In other news, we are happy to report that the plenary to take place in Nairobi, Kenya on August 13-21 2012 is on track to be a phenomenal event. The theme of Being Salt and Light: Friends living in the Kingdom of God in a broken world has been chosen and we expect around 1,000 Friends from all over the world to be in attendance. We strongly urge the Ohio Valley YM to be thinking about fundraising for sending representatives to this historic gathering.

But FWCC also provides spiritual inspiration in less dramatic ways as well. JP Lund offers this story "During the final worship, I noticed a little program next to the hymn pamphlet in the pocket of the chair in front of me. The program was for a camp that had been held there earlier. I think it belonged to someone named "Annnnnnnnnn." It had printed material from the leaders, which I paid no attention to, and lots of space for the campers to write in. Ann used this for a cursive roller coaster (the entire alphabet), a game of tic tac toe ending in cats, a message from an acquaintance "you'll never guess who this is", lots of doodles, and one message for me: "I will make a difference in the lives of my friends who didn't get to come." For all of you who are not so fortunate as to be able to attend FWCC gatherings, the FWCC reps will continue to try to bring back spiritual energy and share with our Friends back home.

OVYM Planning Committee
7th Month, 2009

Paul Kriese, Clerk

Anyone who has had the privilege of serving the YM as Clerk of Planning Committee knows that they are as successful as the people on the committee. This year was no exception. We gathered a centered group, some more seasoned in the work than others, but all who contributed their sense of God's Leading's for this year's Sessions. Our deliberations have been both spirit-led and communally developed. You are now in the midst of the results of these deliberations. We have tried some new ways of business: table registration before YM sessions begin, new discernments to encourage youth and young adults to these sessions, revised daily news sheets, attempts to provide transportation needs in useful and timely way and to create environmentally safe ways to treat our meal preparations – thanks to the vision of youth and children's YM staffs and YM youth and children. We have continued practices that YM participants have found necessary for sound and Spirit-led sessions including worship sharing, workshops, canoe trips, intergenerational activities, and of course, our bookstore and evening interest groups. The Planning Committee staff each takes a day for which they will be on hand to deal with issues of that day. They are: 3rd day: Paul Kriese, 4th Day: Jane Haldeman, 5th Day: Stan Zarowin, 6th Day: David Pilbrow and 7th Day: Tunia McClure. Please fill out YM comment sheet at the end of YM. Planning Committee pays attention and tries to accommodate concerns raised by these comment sheets.

Quaker Heritage Center of Wilmington College
Annual Report for 2008/2009

A year of challenges and opportunities. A year of changes and continuity. A year of successes and learning experiences. As the 2008/2009 academic year comes to a close, I find myself grateful for it all.

Since Summer 2008, we have hosted four different exhibits in the Quaker Heritage Center Gallery. "Wilmington Yearly Meeting in Black & White: The Art of Marty Leigh," "The Children of Abraham," "A Time for Reflection," and "A House Divided: Quaker Responses to the Civil War" welcomed Friends (and friends of Friends) to reflect on their own stories, their own lives, and their own beliefs. Wilmington College students, faculty, and staff, the wider Quaker community, and visitors from around southwest Ohio each found something different to identify with in each exhibit. Special thanks goes out to the many people who made these exhibits possible, including the Ohio Humanities Council for providing "The Children of Abraham," and Wynn Alexander and the Wilmington College Theatre Department for construction of the "meetinghouse" for "A House Divided," which will remain in the gallery through October 9. It will be followed by "The Quaker Tapestry," a traveling exhibit from Philadelphia Yearly Meeting. We will begin work this coming year on a special exhibit celebrating the work of Friends United Meeting, in preparation for the 2011 FUM Triennial, which will be held on the Wilmington College campus.

What are exhibits without collections? This year we were able to restore an 1861 Seth Thomas Quaker calendar clock that came from the Peelle family. We also received a collection of items from Charlie Pearson (Cincinnati Friends Meeting, WYM) related to his military service during World War II; radio recordings and documentation from Cincinnati Monthly Meeting; and a large collection of Quaker books from the estate of Larry Pickard (Council House Friends Meeting, Great Plains YM and Midwest YM, and Wilmington Friends Meeting, WYM).

Visitors to the Center included the parents of incoming freshmen during Summer Orientation; tourists participating in the Quaker Heritage Tour; members of the Ward family who made a visit to the Center part of their family reunion; Wilmington College Resident Advisor orientation; Quaker students, faculty, and staff who gathered for an opening year celebration; local teachers who attended a National History Day in Ohio Teachers Workshop; Wilmington College students from Academic Resources, Writing I, Freshman Global Issues & Cultures, Comparative Religions, and Senior Global Issues & Cultures classes; community members on campus for the Heart Music Change concert; young women from the Wilmington Church of the Latter Day Saints; prospective Wilmington College students and their parents; young people from Ecuador and the Philippines who were participants in the International Undergraduate Research Seminar; a local Red Hat club; individuals who attended the Peace Clinics at the Peace Resource Center; participants in the Quaker Genealogy & History Conference; 4th graders from East End Elementary School; the United Society of Friends Women from Wilmington Friends Meeting; and the Wilmington Middle School College Club.

This year's Quaker Genealogy & History Conference focused on the impact of the Civil War on the Religious Society of Friends. "A House Divided: Quakers, the Civil War, and Lincoln" featured presentations by historians, theologians, and scholars such as Jim Newby, Gary Kersey, Lester Horwitz, Martin P. Johnson, Donne Hayden, Christine Hadley Snyder, Karen Campbell, Jessica Nelson, David Goff, and Gary Farlow. The Sunday bus tour of historic sites was a highlight of the conference, although nothing could top the special presentation of "Led By the Spirit," a multimedia dramatization scripted by Christine Hadley Snyder (Dayton Friends Meeting, OVYM) based on "A Quaker Family Visits President Lincoln," a play by Gary Kersey (Dover Friends Meeting, WYM).

I spent quite a bit of time this year "on the road" sharing the mission and vision of the Quaker Heritage Center with individuals at the FUM Triennial in North Carolina, Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting, Ada Chapel Friends (WYM), the Springboro (Ohio) Historical Society, and the Ohio Association of Historical Societies and Museums annual meeting. I also participated in a weekend retreat facilitated by FUM on the Role of Campus Ministry in Quaker Colleges. Most exciting, the Quaker Heritage Center was invited by the Friends Committee on National Legislation to install a traveling exhibit in the Wilson Conference Room in their Washington DC facility, "To Friends Beyond the Sea That Have Black and Indian Slaves: Friends Respond to Slavery." The exhibit has been up for almost 12 months, and has generated interest in the Quaker Heritage Center among individuals who otherwise would never have known the Center existed!

The Quaker Heritage Center continued working with the Wilmington College Peace Resource Center on two projects: "Stories of Hope," a series of permanent exhibits on Barbara Reynolds, the Hiroshima Maidens, Sadako Sasaki, and Dr. Takashi Nagai; and Peace Week, which included a Family Fun Night and a concert with Australian diplomat, songwriter, and peace-keeper Iain Campbell Smith. We also collaborated with the Isaac Harvey Fund in February and March to present a series of speakers on the theme "If War Is Not the Answer, What Is?" Joe Volk and Bridget Moix (FCNL), Mary Lord (formerly of AFSC), Chuck Fager (Quaker House), and Rick Polhamus (Christian Peacemaker Teams) spoke on campus, met with students, and addressed the topic from a variety of perspectives. The Center was also able to lend financial support to the Campus Ministry Office to bring Bart Campolo to campus for Religious Emphasis Week in April.

Use of the T. Canby Jones Meetinghouse continues to be in high demand from groups within the Wilmington College and wider Quaker communities. The Meetinghouse was the site of Faith & Life Forums, faculty meetings, Instruction Development and Resources Committee programs, Honors Program capstone presentations, Admissions events, Entrepreneurship presentations, Catholic mass on high holy days, weekly College Worship, Conflict Resolution Education in Teacher Education workshops, faculty retreats, an Agriculture program alumni gathering, Introduction to Quakers classes, the Leadership Clinton Youth Collaborative graduation celebration, and a weekly Bible Study led by Matthew Zuehlke (Wilmington Friends Meeting, WYM).

As a part of the Wilmington College campus community, I was able to provide training for four students who completed internships with the Center this academic year: Blyss Fadley, Elizabeth Heidler, Kari Jones, and Jessica Nelson learned about exhibit research, design, fabrication, and installation, and educational programming. I have continued as a member of the Isaac Harvey Fund Committee, and served as the Coordinator for the Westheimer Peace Symposium and Issues & Artists series. I provided the message at College Worship, sat on a panel of faculty and staff for new trustee orientation, met with Writing I courses who were reading about the experience of silent worship, served as a scholarship contest evaluator for incoming freshmen, and participated in FCNL's spring lobby weekend. I have been meeting with the Wilmington Yearly Meeting Wilmington College Committee. In the wider museum professional world, I continue as the Region 8 Representative to the Board of the Ohio Association of Historical Societies and Museums, serving on the planning committees for the 2008 Region 8 meeting and the 2009 annual meeting, and speaking at the 2008 Region 8 meeting. I am the Chair of the Heritage Advisory Council and a member of the History and Legacy Subcommittee of the Clinton County (Ohio) Bicentennial Committee.

The Center has been blessed this past year by the generosity of a number of groups and individuals who have made financial contributions to the work of the Center: Cincinnati Friends Meeting, Leesburg Friends Meeting, Wilmington Friends Meeting, Deborah Beard, Nancy Bernard, Michael Birkel, Dave Chapman, John Fitzgerald, Ellen Gilbert, Doug Haag, Dale Hayes, Susan Henry, Mary Katheryn Hilberg, Richard Perry, Cindy Peterson, Ed Roberts, Oreida Schroeder, Tom Terrell, Patricia Thomas, and Frances Wilkin. Thank you also to those who volunteered their time and energy to our programs and exhibits: David Brindle, Les Dobyns, Jenna Fuerst, Alan Haines, Nic Haines, Patti Kinsinger, Mark Lunsford, Kent Pickard, and Lauren Wayson, who did everything from clean exhibit cases and put stamps on postcards to set up displays and catalog collections. A special thank you goes out to two graduating Wilmington College students: Jerry Wheeler, who has worked as a Student Gallery Assistant for three years, and Sonja Koehler, who worked as a Student Gallery Assistant this past year. They will be missed!

None of these wonderful programs, exhibits, or activities could have happened without your encouragement, donations to the collection, and financial support throughout the past year. With your continued assistance, I look forward to another banner year!

Respectfully submitted,
Ruth M. Dobyns, Curator, Quaker Heritage Center of Wilmington College

3. Review of minutes of sixth month, 2008

No corrections were offered to the minutes of the sixth month, 2008 Executive Committee.

4. Approval of proposed agenda

Friends approved the proposed agenda with no additions

5. Earthcare

The clerk read a letter from the Earthcare subcommittee requesting stand-alone committee status within the Yearly Meeting, noting that the subcommittee had been meeting since 2006. Jamie Fota, Marcie Ankrom, Mark Williams, Marshall Gibson and Bill Cahalan have been meeting as the subcommittee. Concerns were shared that the current subcommittee consists of Friends who exhibit a life-long commitment to the cause of Earthcare. As a stand-alone committee, the Nominating Committee would have the charge of discerning and rotating the membership of the committee. The Assistant Clerk recommended that the matter be forwarded to the quarterly meetings for discernment, and then to the Yearly Meeting session upon the advice of the quarterly meetings. The clerk will request that the Earthcare subcommittee draft a proposal for the committee that would be suitable for the Policy manual and forward this proposal to the quarterly meetings to use in their discernment. The subcommittee is asked to explain why stand-alone committee status would be preferable to remaining a subcommittee.

6. Position of Registrar

The Yearly Meeting Registrar has historically been a part of the Yearly Meeting Planning Committee, having been recruited by the committee. It has been suggested that the Registrar be a position discerned by the Nominating Committee. The clerk will research the Yearly Meeting handbook for its guidance and bring the matter to the Executive Committee at a future meeting.

7. Training of Youth Workers

All people working with the young people of the Yearly Meeting, both volunteer and paid, must be trained in the policies adopted by the Yearly Meeting. The training is an expression of our responsibility to our children. It was suggested that the clerks of the three youth committees coordinate the training. It was also noted that the Religious Education and Personnel committees could be incorporated into the process. The clerk will work with the clerks of the Children's Committees, Religious Education, and Personnel Committee to develop a procedure. Friends approved.

8. Appointments by Executive Committee

The clerk distributed a listing of the Executive Committee appointments to the Yearly Meeting. It was noted that these appear on page 54 of the Yearly Meeting Minute Book.

9. Treasurer's Report

Steve Angell summarized the Treasurer's Report. It was noted that the Annual Session expenses were approximately $ 9000 more than income. This is less than the budget projection of $ 10,600. It was noted that some meetings have expressed concern that they would not be able to meet the budgeted contribution after the budget has been approved. Friends noted that some of the timing issues on budget discernment are related to the new procedures being implemented to the Yearly Meeting budget process. The Treasurer's Report will be appended to these minutes.

10. Miami Quarterly Meeting

The Miami Quarterly Meeting last met in fifth month, 2008. The quarter has received a request from Teen Activities for assistance for attendance at the Joint Quarterly Meeting. The Committee of Two has approved $ 40 for two teens to attend the Joint Quarterly Meeting.

11. Joint Quarterly Meeting

Whitewater Quarterly Meeting reminds Friends that the deadline for registration for Joint Quarterly Meeting is upon us. Meetings are reminded that registrations must be received to complete the plans for Happy Hollow.

12. Youth Secretary Report

The clerk distributed copies of the Youth Secretary Report dated tenth month 4, 2008.

13. Audit Committee

The clerk reported that Tom Glen has requested to be released from the duties of the yearly meeting audit. J.P. Lund has offered to work with Donita Barnes to complete the 2008 audit. Friends approved.

14. Personnel Committee

Tom Nowel reported that the Personnel Committee has met regarding two matters, one being the performance evaluation of the Yearly Meeting Clerical Support Staff, the other being the status of the two Yearly Meeting staff persons. The Personnel Committee advises that in the past, the yearly meeting has operated as if the staff people were employed on an exempt basis (exempt from the requirement to pay for overtime). In fact, the staff positions are non-exempt positions. This status has been confirmed with the United States Department of Labor (verbally) and the Human Resources Manager of Philadelphia Yearly Meeting. The committee proposes changing the relationship with the staff persons to contract status, with the initial contract period to run December 1, 2008 through May 31, 2009. The contract would detail terms of service to the yearly meeting. The Presiding Clerk of the Yearly Meeting and the Treasurer would have the responsibility to act on behalf of the yearly meeting in executing the contracts. The Personnel Committee will proceed with the transition to contract status, with approval to be managed by phone conference of the Executive Committee. A draft of the contract will be appended to these minutes. Friends expressed gratitude for the work dedicated to this change in status, and the transparency it will represent. Friends approved.

15. Yearly Meeting Planning Committee

The committee will meet tenth month 18, 2008. Paul Kriese will convene.

16. Discipline Revision Committee

Monthly Meetings should have received the third draft of Membership, part 3. Responses are requested by early first month, 2009. Guidelines were included to help meetings provide the most helpful communication with the committee. Meetings are encouraged to name someone to draft a sense of the discussion. The committee also needs the most accurate contact list from monthly meetings. It was noted that the Discipline Revision report in the minute book is the one pre-annual session. An updated report from the ninth month 6, 2008 meeting was submitted for publication. It was requested that the update be re-sent and cc'd to Deborah Jordan to be inserted into the archive copy and distributed via e-mail and postal mail to monthly meetings. The updated text would also appear in the Quill.

17. Advancement and Nurture Committee

Virginia Wood reported that the committee is meeting eleventh month 22, 2008. That will be the first meeting since the annual sessions, and will be under the care of the clerk's table.

18. Publications Committee

Virginia Wood expressed gratitude to Erik Cleven for his work on the Yearly Meeting Minute Book. The publication for archive will need an insert with corrections. Formatting difficulties were the most significant challenge. The final document should be available for Joint Quarterly Meeting. The Statistical Report, starting on page 64, includes some issues. The Statistical Report will be distributed to meetings via e mail and postal mail to meetings in a correct format. Friends should expect some guidelines for the submission of reports for the 2009 Reports In Advance to help with some of the formatting issues for the next sessions. Friends approved. Friends will consider the items to be included in Reports in Advance and the Minute Book at a future Executive Committee meeting to provide the most appropriate reporting.

19. Nominating

The Nominating Committee met tenth month 4, 2008 prior to the Executive Committee meeting. The committee is looking at the need for officers, and has become aware that a CPA is desirable for the audit. The committee will meet next on eleventh month 17, 2008 via conference call.

20. Teen Activities

Nikki Coffey-Tousley presented the report of the Teen Secretary. The Teens are energized with preparations for the Alaska Spirit Camp trip. More than $ 500 has been raised through the sale of candles and jewelry. They are applying for grants through Quaker organizations, and more items will be available for sale at Joint Quarterly Meeting. The Teens will present a program with the Young Adult Friends at the Joint Quarterly Meeting. The full report of the Teen Secretary is appended to these minutes.

21. Budget and Finance

Paul Buckley reported that a concern has been raised that we approved contributions of $ 20,000 but only allocated $ 19,350. It was suggested that Budget and Finance consider a donation to William Penn House, as the yearly meeting has a named representative to the organization. Friends approved.

22. Friends Music Camp

Peg Champney reported that 5 dorm staff workers at the 2008 Friends Music Camp were former campers, who bring a special connection to the experience. She reported that one camper who was having difficulties with associations has now enrolled at Olney Friends School, and another has experienced positive changes following the camp experience.

23. Friends Home, Inc.

Dale Hayes reported that Hurricane Ike left Friends Home without power for approximately 24 hours. The organization is in the process of strategic planning, and is carefully considering demographic changes and needs. The entrance to the facility has been re-done to be more accessible.

24. Friends Committee for National Legislation

Frank Huss reported that Friends Committee for National Legislation will meet in the Eleventh month. Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting will have five in attendance.

25. Earlham School of Religion

Steve Angell reported that Earlham School of Religion is exploring relationships between the school and monthly and yearly meetings. Steve invited any comments on the subject that he could share.

The meeting closed in silent worship.

Friends approved the minutes.

The next Executive Committee Meeting is second month 7, 2009 via conference call starting at noon. Details will be distributed closer to the time.

OVYM Advanced Reports 2009

Fourth month 4, 2009 will include work on the budget in the morning, and Executive Committee in the afternoon at Earlham School of Religion.

Sixth month 6, 2009 is currently scheduled to be at Community Friends. The clerk will contact North Meadow Circle of Friends to possibly change the location of the meeting.

Friends were reminded to expect a called meeting via conference call to consider the contracts for the yearly meeting staff positions.

- 3. Review of minutes of tenth month, 2008. No corrections were offered to the minutes of the tenth month, 2008 Executive Committee.

- 4. Approval of proposed agenda. The agenda was approved.

- 5. Treasurer's Report. Steve Angell reported. His report will be appended to these minutes. We are roughly on budget at this point. The proportional share income is a bit low, and we will be looking to make that up over the next months. Friend Angell agreed to review past information to see how we are doing compared to prior years. Friend Zarowin inquired as to whether we need to be making adjustments in response to the current economic crisis. Friend Nowel reported that Miami Monthly Meeting has reduced some of its budget items in anticipation of reduced income. Friend Angell said he will contact individual meetings to see what they anticipate being able to contribute to the Yearly Meeting. Friend Griffith reminded Friends that in the morning prior to the April 4 Executive Committee meeting there will be time for an extensive discussion of the budget. Friend Angell expressed some concern for fundraising for the Alaska trip.

- 6. Follow-up from Tenth Month Executive Committee Meeting. The Earth Care Subcommittee will remain a subcommittee of Peace and Social Concerns. The Religious Education Committee will take over training of our youth workers. The Personnel Committee has executed contracts with our two employees – Clerical Support, and Youth Secretary – in place of the former hourly structure.

- 7. Standing Approval for Use of OVYM Mailing List. Friends approved use of the mailing list for OVYM ministries and FGC.

9. Whitewater Quarterly Meeting Report – April 18, 2009 at Clear Creek Friends Meeting.

10. Miami Quarterly Meeting Report – Tom Nowel reported. Miami Quarter will meet February 15, 2009, at Louisville. All incumbent officers are willing to serve an additional term. Teens are handling the program at the February 15 session.

11. Youth Secretary Staff Report Lauren Baumann reported. There have been two retreats in the last few months, and teens are gearing up for a retreat at Louisville. Please let teens know that they are welcome to join that retreat. There will be a service retreat in Dayton in mid-June. Five teens have been accepted for the Alaska trip, and more applications coming in. Various fundraising activities are underway. Planning is ongoing with Alaska Friends. A new Flickr site for OVYM teens has been created, and the link to it will be included in Lauren Baumann's written report.

Deborah Jordan reported that 5th and 6th graders from New Garden, NC meeting will be coming to Cincinnati for a service project and all are welcome to join in.

12. Advancement and Nurture Committee Virginia Wood reporting. A written report is appended to these minutes. The committee met and discerned that there is a strong role for the committee within the YM. Concerns were raised about poor attendance at workshops that the committee has offered in the past. One idea is to convene in the spring a meeting of clerks of monthly meeting Ministry and Council committees. This suggestion was approved by Executive Committee Friends present.

The committee suggests that there needs to be some discernment of the relationship among the committee, yearly meeting, and quarterly meeting.

The Presiding Clerk urged Friends to read and consider the Advancement and Nurture report.

Friend Branson asked Friends to forward to Nominating Committee the names of Friends to be considered for service on the Advancement and Nurture Committee.

13. Teen Committee Nikki Coffey Tousley reported. It is important to let Friends know about the Alaska trip. Unfortunately, none of the grant applications were approved for funding the trip. We are asking meetings to do local fundraising. The age limit for teen participation has been lowered to 13 years old, as of June 2009. The committee will seek OVYM teens to fill out the group. If there are not enough teens from OVYM, participation will be opened to FUM Friends in the region, and in that case we would ask them to pay their airfare.

14. Nominating Committee Byron Branson reported.

Quill Editor Nomination Dan Cartmell of West Lafayette MM has volunteered to serve as soon as his nomination is approved. Friends approved.

Audit Time Frame The Nominating Committee suggests a change in the schedule for the audit work to allow a longer time window for accomplishing the audit. Friends are asked to waive the requirement that the audit be completed in July of this year. Friends approved. At the summer sessions we will consider changing the handbook.

Associated Committee on Indian Affairs Representative This position has not been filled in the last five years. The Nominating Committee asks whether this position should be dropped. Friends approved eliminating the position of representative to the Associated Committee on Indian Affairs.

Assistant Treasurer This is now a 4-year commitment as part of the Treasurer/Assistant Treasurer rotation. Please forward any suggestions for this position to the Nominating Committee.

15. Audit Report A written report is appended to these minutes. Friends accepted this report.

16. Budget and Finance Stan Zarowin reported. He asked that yearly meeting committees submit their budget requests to Budget and Finance Committee along with an explanation of the need for these funds. These requests should be submitted by the middle of March. Please email requests to Paul Buckley at Paul.Buckley1@sbcglobal.net .

17. Discipline Revision Betsy Neale reported that the committee is actively working but has no requests for Executive Committee.

18. Yearly Meeting Planning Stan Zarowin reported. The Yearly Meeting Planning Committee asks for a subsidy for first time attenders of $2055.80. This request will be considered at the budget discussion the morning of the April 4 Executive Committee meeting.

Budget line for young adults – the committee is awaiting direction for this item. Again, this will be discussed at the April 4 Executive Committee meeting.

The theme for the 2009 OVYM sessions is “Living Our Testimonies Today – Let Us See What Love Can Do.”

19. Announcements

Miami Monthly Meeting and the Nowel family are hosting a fundraiser for FCNL. Contact Tom Nowel for further information.

There will be a Middle Youth program at Miami Quarterly Meeting, February 15, 2009 at Louisville FM. Because space is limited in the meetinghouse, there will be no overnight for Middle Youth.

The fall issue of the Quill has been delayed but is coming out very soon. Ben Griffith will distribute contact information for the new editor, Dan Cartmell.

20. Next Meeting Executive Committee April 4, 2009 at Earlham School of Religion, Richmond, IN. A budget discussion will begin at 9:30 am with the Executive Committee meeting noon to 4 pm.

Submitted,

Betsy Neale

¹ It is possible that our two types of fundraising are working at cross purposes with one another. There are some meetings that have contributed to our on budget expenses but not our off budget ones; similarly, ones that have contributed to the off budget expenses but not to the on budget ones (i.e., they have not yet sent in any proportional shares); and one meeting so far has contributed to both.

Report to Executive Committee
Advancement and Nurture Committee

Advancement and Nurture Committee was convened by Virginia Wood, Assistant Clerk OVYM, Saturday November 22, 2008. Present from the committee were Donita Barnes, Jack Davis, David Garman, Paulette Meier, and Paul Ricketts. Absent was Victoria Burke. Paulette, Victoria, and Paul do not feel that they can adequately give time this year to the activities of the committee and wish to be released from their service.

A good part of the day was spent just getting to know one another in that some members were new to the committee and others had had little experience with the committee. Thus when asked to reflect upon the nature of the committee and its relationship and role within the YM, members were asked to draw upon current and past experiences. Three observations emerged from the day.

1. The committee would like to proceed with their charge –“...to promote the spiritual growth and nurture in the Yearly Meeting...” (minute 24, eight month, seven, 1992) Although -----
2. There is a feeling that perhaps over the past few years that the committee focus has been on the tasks assigned to it rather than assessing needs and then formulating a program that would meet those needs.
3. The observation made in 2 might also be applied to the Yearly Meeting in general. Is the committee structure currently in place the best way for the YM to provide its services?

Specific actions that the committee would like to undertake were noted.

-At the next committee meeting, the committee would like to explore the concept of spiritual formation groups at the YM level as a way of providing ongoing nurture for those individuals wishing more or in addition to what is available at their local level. Such groups might help to establish a network of connections between individuals within the YM.

-Visitation was seen as an important tool for not only nurture but as a way of gaining a sense of needs. However, there are some drawbacks to merely periodically visiting a meeting or responding to requests (which happen to be few). The committee would like to try convening a meeting of Ministry and Counsel Clerks to provide an opportunity for the clerks to share from their experience and highlight areas of concern about which they could use additional support. Visitations and spiritual friendships could then be set up based on the information obtained.

-The committee did not go into an extended discussion of its membership or its relationship to the Quarterly Meetings but did note that communication within and committee, between the committee and nominating committee, and between the committee and Quarterly Meetings was poor. It does feel that if a clearer understanding of its relationship to the Quarterly Meeting is one that needs to be made, that discussion should occur at the YM level, not within the committee. Its feeling is that having members representative of both quarters is good for the committee, but also feel that those Friends willing to serve are called to the work and the current members feel that is best. The committee needs to build upon the gifts within the committee and use them rightly. Currently the active committee members consists of three people, all from Whitewater Quarter. To merge with another committee merely to increase numbers does not seem in right order. It would be appropriate for the YM to re-consider the number of people appointed to the A&N committee and in light of actions by Quarterly Meetings establishing similar committees. This might be appropriate also for other YM committees.

-Noted repeatedly was the feeling that it is the health of the Yearly Meeting we are addressing. What is the best way for our religious community to build up the spiritual health and vitality of the Yearly Meeting? Is our current committee structure the best? If so, how do we nurture and support the committees?

The next committee meeting for Advancement and Nurture Committee will be February 21, 2009. To be invited will be a resource person on the topic of spiritual formation groups. In late spring the committee most likely will convene a meeting of Ministry and Counsel clerks. We would appreciate Executive Committee considering the questions noted in italics.

AUDITING COMMITTEE REPORT
OHIO VALLEY YEARLY MEETING
FOR FISCAL YEAR 2007-2008

October 25, 2008

We have examined the financial records of Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting. We find them to be in good order. The Treasurer's Report accurately summarizes the financial state and activities of the Yearly Meeting.

Closing the books at the end of the fiscal year (June 30) was complicated by late payments of proportional shares by a few monthly meetings. We encourage the monthly meetings to make their contributions in a timely manner, as this will simplify the work of the treasurer and the auditing committee.

3. Qualifications / clarifications of minutes of second month, 2009 conference call.

It was noted that item 14 needs a dash added for clarification. The minutes were accepted as recorded.

Friends discussed the effectiveness of the conference call as a vehicle for Executive Committee. Friends shared that the conference call format could be effective for short agendas when the meeting is well organized. Friends also observed that face to face meetings are also very important. Nominating committee has met via conference call, but limits its use to alternate meetings.

4. FGC Gathering 2010

The Friends General Conference Gathering in 2010 will be held in Bowling Green, Ohio. The Gathering is seeking 30-40 Friends to join the Planning Committee for this event. Those interested should contact Rex Sprouse, who will co-clerk the event.

5. State of Society Reports

Meetings are reminded that State of Society Reports are due to the Clerical Support person, who will distribute them to the Quarter clerks for consideration by the Quarterly meetings. It was noted that the Clerical Support person in this case is facilitating the distribution to the Quarters.

6. Handbook Revisions

The Clerk advised that there are several versions of the OVYM Handbook in circulation. The most recent revisions to the Handbook were distributed. The clerk is considering the best method to streamline the process of maintaining the accurate copies of the Handbook.

7. Treasurer's Report.

The Treasurer distributed copies of the Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting Budget Summary. Meetings were reminded that the deadline for responses to the proposed budget is the June 15 2009, especially with regard to proportional share. It was noted that the proportional share is expected to increase from the current $ 106.00 to $ 112.50 in the proposed budget. The Treasurer reminded Friends to submit their travel expense reports for the Executive Committee meeting of fourth month fourth day, 2009. Friends accepted the Treasurer's Report.

8. Statistician's Report

The clerk noted that Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting membership for the previous year was 761, and for the most recent reporting year was 760. The report of the Statistician will be appended to these minutes.

9. Request for Discernment

Friends considered the matter of pay raises for the contracted professionals of Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting. The current contracts will expire fifth month 31, 2009. It was noted that the current contracts could serve as templates for the next year. The supervisory committee clerks were reminded to meet soon and submit recommendations for the next contract year. The Personnel Committee is available for consultation with any questions relative to the contracts.

10. Budget Subsidy for Yearly Meeting Session First Time Attenders and Young Adult Friends

The Yearly Meeting Planning Committee has proposed a budget line in its plan to help cover 50% of the cost of first time attenders and young adult Friends to the Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting annual session. It is proposed that Young Adult Friends would be invited to help in some way with the program of the Yearly Meeting session. The Yearly Meeting Planning Committee will consult with Young Friends prior to the sixth month Executive Committee session for their input on the proposal. It was noted that Executive Committee would consider this matter for the 2009 session, but that continuation of this policy for future sessions would be brought to the floor of the Yearly Meeting session. Friends entered into silence to consider this matter. It was noted that Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting is reaping the reward of past subsidies for children, young adults and first time attenders, with involvement that may not have been possible without the financial assistance. Friends approved the inclusion of the subsidy for Young Adult Friends and first time attenders to the budget.

11. Naming to the Nominating Committee

Serving as Naming Committee for the Nominating Committee, Friends entered into silence to prayerfully consider names of those friends who could be contacted to consider service to the Nominating Committee, with one opening to a position to serve through 2011 and two openings to positions to serve through 2012. Five names rose out of the silence. The Assistant Clerk will contact the individuals whose names rose out of the silence.

12. Miami Quarterly Meeting Report

The clerk of Miami Quarterly Meeting reported that the current officers are willing to continue their service to the Quarter for the next year. The Miami Quarterly Meeting will meet fifth month 17, 2009 at Miami Monthly Meeting, during the celebration of its 200th year of Miami Quarterly Meeting. Friends will consider the State of Society reports from Miami Quarterly Meeting constituent meetings, and the history of Miami Quarterly Meeting. Friends were asked to bring any photos or documents to add to the celebration of this anniversary.

13. Whitewater Quarterly Meeting

Whitewater Quarterly Meeting will meet fourth month 18, 2009 at Clearcreek Monthly Meeting.

14. Personnel Committee

The clerk of the Personnel Committee advised that the annual meeting of the committee will be scheduled in the near future, and that its current business are the matters regarding the professional contracts noted in minute number 9 of these minutes.

15. Youth Secretary Report

The Youth Secretary distributed copies of her report dated April 4, 2009. Highlights include a retreat second month 14 and 15 in Louisville, fundraising activities for the Alaska trip, and the annual service trip scheduled for sixth month 12 to 15, 2009 in Dayton, Ohio. The Alaska trip is scheduled for seventh month 12 through 28, 2009. Eight Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting teens will attend the Spirit Camp. The full report will be appended to these minutes. Friends accepted the report.

16. Teen Committee

The clerk of the Teen Committee reported that the committee is experiencing the benefits of being a consistent presence in the Yearly Meeting. The committee anticipates additional fundraising needs of approximately $ 2000.00 for the Alaska trip. The teens will return late Tuesday, July 28. Yearly Meeting will begin Wednesday, July 29.

17. Clerical Staff Report

Deborah Jordan advised Friends of the Fifth Annual Quaker Genealogy Conference fourth month 17, 2009. Requests for updates to the Yearly Meeting Directory will be sent soon. Dan Cartmell is the new Quaker Quill editor. Steve Angell will visit Iran fourth month 25 to fifth month 10, 2009. Friends should consider this schedule in any needs for the Yearly Meeting Treasurer.

18. Friends Music Camp

Peg Champney reported that Friends Music Camp is in need of fundraising for scholarships. The 2009 roster is almost full at this time. This will be the thirtieth year of the camp. Alumni stories continue to validate the importance of the Friends Music Camp experience.

19. Middle Youth Committee

The Middle Youth group enjoyed a retreat in Louisville. The committee is looking for a female staff person for the annual session in 2009.

20. Nominating Committee

Byron Branson advised that the Nominating Committee slate still has openings. Friends approved the appointment of Jeanette and Bill Shetter to summarize the epistles received and to be shared at the 2009 Yearly Meeting session, and Roy Joe Stuckey and Jeanette Stuckey to lead the Memorial Meeting at the 2009 Yearly Meeting session. The committee is concerned with finding Friends to step into the roles of Assistant Clerk and Assistant Treasurer. Friends entered into silent worship to consider names to recommend for these needs. One name rose out of the silence. Friends were reminded to carry this concern back to their monthly meetings and communicate to the Nominating Committee.

21. Religious Education Committee

The Religious Education Committee has accepted the responsibility to show the DVD for training of those interested in working with young people in Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting. Committee members are available to visit monthly meetings for this purpose.

22. Yearly Meeting Planning Committee

The Yearly Meeting Planning Committee has considered the possibility of keeping the coffee shop open during Yearly Meeting for informal discussions. This is an option, but one that requires money. The clerk of the Teen Committee requested clarification of the payment available for Children's program staff for the 2009 annual sessions. It was confirmed that the amount of payment will be $ 125 per day. The calculation of the number of days of service will be made with Budget and Finance.

23. Advancement and Nurture

David Garman reported that Advancement and Nurture has entered a period of reflection. The committee will meet fifth month 2, 2009 from 11Am to 3PM at Hopewell Friends to hear ideas and concerns from monthly meeting clerks and ministry and outreach clerks to guide the committee in clarifying its focus.

24. Announcements

Shannon Isaacs will participate in the Great Lakes Initiative in Burundi during the summer of 2009. Friends are asked to hold her in the Light.

Fall Creek Monthly Meeting will host an outreach event fifth month 16, 2009 at 11:30 AM at the meeting house featuring a creative presentation about the Quaker testimonies.

Ft. Wayne Friends will host a Peace and Justice Week-end fourth month 24 and 25, 2009 with Plymouth Congregational UCC. Brochures will be forwarded to Clerical Support for distribution to monthly meetings.

OVYM Advanced Reports 2009

The meeting closed in silent worship.

Friends approved the minutes.

The next Executive Committee meeting will be held sixth month 6, 2009 at North Meadow Circle of Friends in Indianapolis.

Youth Secretary Report
Executive Committee, Richmond, IN
April 4, 2009

Greetings Executive Committee members!

There are many exciting developments within the Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting teen community:

- From February 14 to 15, we had a teen retreat with Louisville Friends Meeting. Eight teens participated throughout the weekend, making this retreat one of our largest weekend retreats of the year! We spent Saturday afternoon look at the Adam and Eve story in the Bible and learning how the Bible is still relevant today. In the evening we went to the Urban Goatwalker Coffeehouse, a community project hosted by a local Baptist congregation, bringing together all sorts of people (including homeless folks) for an open mic night. We helped by serving hot chocolate and desserts. Some of the teens even performed! On Sunday afternoon, the teens led a fishbowl conversation with Miami Quarterly Meeting, raising important questions about Quakerism and spirituality. It was a great weekend!
- As always, we are continuing to raise money for the upcoming trip to Alaska. As of March 31, we have raised $5,348.60, not including the money generously donated from Miami Quarterly Meeting. We are excited how the yearly meeting has come together to help us fund this trip. Donations have ranged from individual contributions, monthly meetings, and from various fundraising efforts by the teens, including successful sales of homemade candles, blankets and jewelry. Efforts continue to get creative: in early March, Community Friends Meeting hosted a fabulous spaghetti dinner. We hope to have future fundraising dinners in Dayton/Yellow Springs, Richmond and Indianapolis. Donations are always appreciated ☺
- We continue to work with Friends from Alaska to solidify our trip itinerary. After a thorough application process, eight OVYM teens have now been accepted to go on the trip; Alaska now has six teens who will be joining us. The teens are really excited about connecting with the Alaska teens for a spiritually deepening adventure.

OVYM Advanced Reports 2009

- Plans are also underway for our annual service trip. This year, we will stay at Dayton Friends Meeting from June 12 to 15. We will be looking at sustainable ways of living in our world, helping out in the local farm community.
- Photos from retreats are posted online here: www.flickr.com/photos/ovymteens. Check 'em out!

We are certainly a busy group! And we are growing. As Executive Committee members, you all can be an invaluable resource to the continued growth and development of the teen group. We would greatly appreciate it if you could notify new teens within your monthly meeting about upcoming teen events (and make sure you let their parents know, too).

Please contact me if you have any questions/comments/new teens to include! I can be reached by email at baumala@yahoo.com or by phone at 215-432-9854.

Respectfully submitted,

Notes for the First Annual Budget Advisory Meeting

April 4, 2009

Held at Earlham School of Religion, 9:30 AM

Attending- note this list is probably incomplete because I think I missed some late-comers.

Bruce and Julie Pearson, David and Virginia Wood, Dave Garman, Dean Matthews, Ben Griffith, Steve Angell, Tom Nowel, Byron Branson, Stan Zarowin

Ben acted as convener for the meeting, the meeting being loosely structured and more informal. Steve gave regrets from Paul Buckley, and passed out a Draft Budget and Budget Summary. He noted that the budget for the annual sessions is the biggest increase in the budget; this increase is due to the two subsidies for First time attenders and Young Adult Friends. The budget as drafted would result in an increase in the proportional share from last year's $106 / member to $112.50 / member. (As to the budget and tweaking numbers, the Friends assembled felt comfortable with the figures presented after all was said and done.)

At this point we touched on a number of specific topics. These were:

1) Subsidies for First Time Attenders and Young Adult Friends. Questions were raised to how the numbers were generated. It was felt that the number for 1st Timers represented an actual estimate of newcomers, and the YAF figure came about from some email communications between Planning Cmte, Yafs, and other persons. It was clarified that the subsidy for 1st timers was calculated at reducing the cost of attendance by 50% and this is also the assumption for YAFs. Ben noted that the Planning Cmte tried to bring this forward last year, but understood that the request came in too late. Others in Executive Committee thought it was communicated that subsidies should be approved on the yearly meeting floor. This is further complicated by the clumsiness of approving Session budgets after the session is already underway. If the item is to remain in the budget, it must be approved by Executive Committee- since Planning will be putting this subsidy information out for 1st timers and YAFs in the registration packets (and thus we would expect to be paying these subsidies!). If these subsidies are to remain in the budget as new practice, it must be approved on the yearly meeting floor.

2) Alaska Teen Trip. It was pointed out that the contributions still needed to be raised totaled $4499. Steve added that Miami Quarterly Meeting had sent in a check for $1000 that was not reflected in these figures. It was clarified that whatever remains in this line would be paid from the General Fund reserves. One person spoke to the need for better communication of the Teen Trip needs to monthly meetings. Teen Cmte feels the some pledged contributions may not have come in yet. They feel as if they have about $2000 to raise. Tom reported that Miami Quarterly can be re-approached in case of a shortfall.

3) Volunteer vs. Business Mileage Rates. Concern was raised about having to put down the IRS Business Rate for travel if one wanted to be reimbursed fairly. At the present, IRS business rate is $.55 and the volunteer for non-profit rate is $.14. (Steve might help clarify the concern better than I am doing!) It was also noted that some are reluctant to send in forms for whatever reason, and this really needs to be done so the YM can keep track of what it costs to keep us going. The concern for reporting is mainly about travel within the YM for committee business.

4) Contract-Salary Question. Tom Nowel brought up the concern that language within the budget may give us potential problems. Now that YM has begun to contract for needed services instead of employing people for the jobs, we need to carefully weed out the language of “employee” and “salary” in our budget.

5) Budget process concerns. One friend wondered if the draft budget could be sent out earlier, and some B&F members spoke to the difficulty of this request. There will be a two month window for monthly meetings to look at the proposed budget, the proportional share, and report an expected contribution. We also made one editorial change in the budget calendar that repeated the contribution discerned could be at the proportional share rate, or more or less. Steve recorded this change. It was pointed out the awkwardness of the staff contracts expire on June 1st. In our previous discussions about the covenanting process, we made clear that these figures for salary or now contractual fees are line items that are not negotiable except through the work of the Personnel Cmte. The current staffers need to have their annual performance reviews completed and a new contract ready by June 1st. These then can be approved at Executive Committee on June 6. Friends expressed appreciation for the process we were doing now. It makes the budget a more clear and understandable reflection of the work we are doing as a YM. This advisory meeting gives the full YM another opportunity to voice its concerns and questions. The Pearsons reported that this meeting was so important to their MM of Bloomington that they were sent. Julie Pearson said that she was very glad she did, and that she felt more able to explain items to her MM. One possibility to deal with the “limbo” of Planning Session budgets and Contract Fees was the suggestion to move to a 15 month budget. Another idea was to move the fiscal year to Jan 1- Dec 31.

6) Forms. It was suggested the “retreat/program” sheet looked like a good sheet for YM Planning Committee to use. It ought to include a blank line. The “Conference Call” line ought to be reworded- “Planning the program costs- including conference calls”. On the budget summary pie chart, it might help if some graphic solid differences might be included so that those who print it out in B/W (or who are color blind) might more clearly see what the chart/key is trying to say.

Ben Griffith, a somewhat sketchy recording of the meeting...

Questions to Paul- How are workdays figured at session?

Are contract/employee items together in Paul and Tom’s mind?

10. Personnel Committee

The Committee has met with the Youth Secretary and the Clerical Support Person. Lauren Baumann has indicated that she will resign her position as Youth Secretary effective the end of eighth month, 2009. Friends approved the enactment of the service provider contracts for the coming year for the Youth Secretary and the Clerical Support person.

11. Handbook Revision Recommended by the Personnel Committee

The Personnel Committee recommended a revision to the Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting Handbook regarding service provider contracts, clarifying language relative to employment and service provider classifications in section 1.5 titled "Employment Contracts". Friends requested that the Personnel Committee reconsider the revisions with concern toward the sentences relative to the distinction of standards applied to employees and those applied to service providers. It was also requested that the committee review the sentence starting “It is the intention...”(sentence number 3). The committee might also consider moving this section out of the Personnel policy, or establishing a separate section in the handbook.

12. Handbook Revision Recommended to Budget Policy

The Budget and Finance Committee recommended a revision to the Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting Handbook regarding the schedule of the committee’s budget calendar. Friends approved the revision.

13. Ad Hoc Committee on Contributions

17. Lauramoore Friends Home, Inc.

Ron Haldeman reported that Lauramoore Friends Home has 6 residents. The budget is set to break even with 6 residents. Ron reported that a 2008 goal of $8000 in grants was met with an actual result of $14000. The 2009 goal of $10000 has already raised $10400.

18. Yearly Meeting Planning Committee

Stanley Zarowin reported that the plans for the 189th annual session are on schedule. It is expected that all attendees will be housed in Mills Hall. There is some concern about attendance level due to the economic situation. Stanley reported that the relationship between Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting and Earlham College is very strong.

19. Teen Committee

Nikki Coffey-Tousley reported that 9 Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting teens will make the Alaska trip, and will be joined by 5 teens from Alaska Friends Conference. Nikki reported that the committee does not expect to exceed the budgeted amount for the trip. The Committee has begun the search for a new Youth Secretary. The teens will engage in the annual service project with the Dayton office of American Friends Service Committee. Nick Rhine of Community Monthly Meeting will assume responsibility for much of the Teen program at the Yearly Meeting annual sessions, as Lauren will return from the Alaska trip on July 28, 2009.

The committee has been engaged in discernment relative to its role and will report at the Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting annual session. The committee will review State of Society Reports and will summarize them at the annual session.

26. Peace and Social Concerns

Friends approved the minutes.

June 6, 2009

Greetings Executive Committee members!

It is with regret that I am unable to attend today's meeting. This weekend, I am volunteering as a facilitator with Friends General Conference's Quaker Quest program, helping to run a full-day workshop in Sacramento, California.

Since we last met, I have been heavily involved with planning for the upcoming Spirit Camp in Alaska. We now have nine OVYM teens coming on the trip: Laura Hyde, Uta Brewington, Corrigan Eckert, Somer Eckert, Rachel Logan-Wood, Adam Funck, Kaitlyn Funck, Dylan Cahalan, and Bret Marshall. We will be joining with six teens and several adults from Alaska Friends Conference. An OVYM parent/teen orientation meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, June 10 with hopes to schedule another meeting before our departure in July. I also will be taking a CPR/First Aid certification course with the American Red Cross within the next week in preparation for the trip.

Roles for the trip have also shifted. My role on the trip has expanded to become the clerk of the staff team, helping to establish a solid daily program throughout the camp. I will work jointly with the four other camp staff members to provide a safe space for the teens to explore their Quaker spirituality and have fun.

The trip will begin in Wasilla, Alaska, where we will work to build community while engaging with service projects to benefit the yearly meeting. From there, we will transition to the weeklong wilderness portion of the trip, kayaking and biking to our next base camp at Eklutna Lake. We will then attend Alaska Friends Conference's yearly meeting sessions at the Wasilla

Meetinghouse. The trip will close in Wasilla and we'll fly home just in time for Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting, returning on July 28.

We have a shortened service trip at Dayton Friends Meeting planned for June 12-15 with six teens registered. We plan on focusing on issues of sustainability, but will also meet with Julie Arias (Englewood Friends Meeting) of the Dayton office of the American Friends Service Committee to learn about their refugee resettlement program.

After much discernment, it has become clear to me that I need to return to Philadelphia and complete my Earlham School of Religion degree from afar. Unfortunately, this also means that I am unable to move forward in renewing a full-year contract with Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting. I hope to continue with my contract through August 31, 2009. I am very grateful for the opportunity to work with the OVYM teens. They are thoughtful, caring, inquisitive and hardworking. Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting is truly blessed to have such a great group of teens.

Please let me know if you have any questions. I can be reached by email at baumala@yahoo.com or by phone at 215-432-9854.

Respectfully submitted,

Lauren Baumann

State of the Meeting Reports

Bloomington Monthly Meeting

Our Meeting continues to enjoy a robust attendance of First Day activities with 47 of our 53 resident members and 4 of our 17 non-resident members participating. There are another 60 adults and 30 youth or children who have attended Meeting for Worship with us more or less regularly. We have felt joy in welcoming Catherine (Cati) Reynolds from associate to full membership, and Julia Pearson, Holly Folk, and Don Byrd into full membership and in the wonder of birth with the arrival of 3 babies. Sorrow has touched us with the passing of one of our oldest members, Ivan Wayne Marker; a long-time attender, Charles Miller; and in farewells to members and attenders who have moved away.

Our community life has been enriched by the creation of a Pastoral Care Committee who are charged with supporting individuals in need but also with development of a caring, gathered community. This has allowed Ministry & Counsel to focus on our corporate and individual spiritual life. We are blessed with flourishing committees of every kind whose faithful response to the Light within is vital to an unprogrammed Meeting. Among our efforts to recognize the contributions by the many members and attenders to our Meeting, we set up a rotation of introductions of all committees, their work, and membership.

We have been given the gift of many children and families in attendance on First Day. This led to one of our biggest projects this year: renovating a large garden shed into a small cottage to use as an additional class room. Our Long Range Planning Committee has achieved this using environmentally friendly design and building methods and involving the community with various aspects of the project. Our Earthcare Witness Committee continues to foster native plants and wildlife in landscaping our grounds and supports plans for a food garden this summer.

As a Meeting we continue to discuss and explore in practice the functions of eldering and ministry and feel it is a sign of spiritual health in our Meeting that members are concerned to seek better understanding of contemporary and traditional Quaker practice with origins beyond our own Meeting's experience.

We lift up the idea of Friends' waiting worship as group communion for the purpose of listening for and sharing the Word of God rather than an opportunity for silent meditation. We do not lack for speaking in our Meetings for Worship although some of us are concerned that Friends' may speak too often, that messages may be too many, or too lengthy. We encourage Friends to practice greater discernment in examining their leadings to speak and remind ourselves that not every message will appear to speak to each of us. To address the needs of those who express a desire to experience longer periods of silent worship we continue to offer mid-week Meeting for Worship and encourage not only prompt arrival to Meeting for Worship but also the option to be seated 15 minutes before the official start of worship.

The Meeting has worked to understand the concept of spiritual gifts, particularly the "gift of vocal ministry." Some fear this idea means setting some Friends above others and that it discourages the contribution of those less experienced in vocal ministry. We seek to recognize that each of us has been blessed by God with different spiritual gifts, at different times, and to different degrees. Further, we must help one another recognize and develop our gifts and to be faithful to the calling to use these gifts for the benefit of the whole community.

For example, Friends have discussed what means of encouragement might be used with those for a gift of vocal ministry beyond speaking privately to the Friend who delivered the message. Expression of appreciation for the benefit received is sometimes met with embarrassment, which we understand to mean they feel humbled by being led to speak and prefer to take no credit for the content or for the results. We seek additional approaches for fostering the many gifts with which we have been blessed.

Another area in which we are profiting spiritually is in query discussions. These have been well attended with insights deeper than in the past. In addition to the traditional query format, we have begun an experiment using the Facebook social networking Website as a forum to discuss queries and other issues among members. There is a generational divide that exists in terms of comfort with this medium, but it has generated a significant membership of Bloomington Friends on Facebook and an opportunity to get to know more of each other's lives.

Perhaps of greatest concern regarding the spiritual life of our Meeting is that some of our Meetings for Worship with Attention to Business or forum discussions, appear to lack the intensity of the Living Light that we feel refreshed by in our Meetings for Worship. We are reminded that there are rhythms in society and in nature that are reflected in individual behavior. By reflecting the troubled society in which we live, Friends face greater temptation to turn away from the Light on matters that we feel strongly about. We seek to develop our habits of spiritual listening to the Will of God and not our own fears and desires. We challenge ourselves to practice greater love, charity, patience, forgiveness, understanding, and tenderness with one another than we have sometimes recently displayed. As we are bound together by our common humanity and the frailties instilled in us by our Creator, we look to our communal spiritual life for support.

Campus Friends Meeting

In our unprogrammed worship, Friends listen to the vocal ministry of those gathered on Sunday, attentive to the voice of God speaking through the human words. Occasionally, we have a totally silent meeting, and everyone is comfortable with that. Listening can occur in the absence of speech. Sometimes we are blessed with a song or a poem or a quotation of Scripture. Our hymn-singing sessions once a month provide yet another opportunity for listening.

When we attend to business, we listen to all opinions and points of view before coming to approval.

Campus Friends Meeting has re-instituted a monthly pot-luck and sharing which we are calling Deepening Corporate Worship. After a potluck meal in the hosting home, Friends share responses to a query prepared by our Ministry & Counsel committee. This gives us an opportunity to listen together for ways in which our corporate worship might be deepened.

We have instituted a Fifth Sunday program, which provides additional listening opportunities. In months containing five Sundays, we invite one of our members to speak after the rise of meeting for worship to share an interest or bit of history about themselves. These have proven to be not only fascinating but an opportunity to get to know each other better and to learn things we didn't know before. Listening to friends talk about experiences that have spoken to them expands and enriches our own experience, especially the spiritual components of our lives.

We continue to offer a Circle of Care to individuals facing difficulties with health or other life challenges, which provides opportunity to listen carefully to the individual's concerns or requests in order to provide assistance and relief. This is also an opportunity for the members of the committee to interact and share their gifts and reservations when it comes to assisting in concrete ways.

We are also continuing our long-standing Inner Search sessions before meeting for worship. We are very fortunate to have our esteemed scholar, T. Canby Jones, as mentor to this activity, which is usually centered around a book on some aspect of spiritual seeking. Listening to the reactions of others to the texts broadens our understanding and deepens our appreciation for the gifts of the spiritual life.

We have begun a time of sharing Joys and Concerns at the rise of meeting for worship which allows us to keep up to date not only on the lives of members of the meeting, but also on the lives of loved ones and neighbors who are not members of the meeting or necessarily even in town.

We seek to listen to how God desires us to respond to the needs of the community around us. Our own Wilmington community is grieving the loss of a major employer and the economic dislocation of many who are losing their livelihood. We have responded individually and corporately by service to a variety of organizations that reach out to those in need, such as Your Father's Kitchen, a local ministry to the destitute and distressed. The meeting has also benefited from the generosity of Friends from the wider Quaker body who have heard of the community's plight and responded. The meeting has directed that their gift be used to defray expenses of local students attending Wilmington College.

God also continues to call us to witness for peace. We have heard the call and responded by, among other things, holding ongoing peace vigils on the college campus.

Clear Creek Monthly Meeting Report of "State of the Meeting, 2009"

Clear Creek Meeting has continued the process of adjusting to being a smaller meeting, seeking the path of faithfulness and growth in the Spirit. We experience both benefits and distractions of closeness to the larger Earlham College community, and seek to find ways to incorporate student members and attenders in the life of the Meeting. We are increasingly aware of the need to seek opportunities for connection to, and participation in projects with, other members of the Richmond community, as we also participate in wider Quaker groups, activities, and concerns.

Gathering for the First Day hour of worship continues to be the core of the Meeting's life. Our worship is deepened by a variety of voices in spoken ministry. We appreciate the presence of our one toddler and two elementary-age children during the opening period of our worship, as well as the regular participation in the worship hour of high school, college and seminary students. The children follow a First Day School curriculum. A second-hour schedule of adult religious education activities has been revived. Our small but active Peace and Social Concerns Committee has faithfully provided information and opportunity for communicating our concerns to appropriate, responsible groups. We rejoice to hear of the experiences and achievements of our young people in school at other places, and welcome them to our worship when they are at home.

Members of Clear Creek Meeting participate in the responsibilities and events of Whitewater Quarterly and Ohio Valley Yearly Meetings, as well as the wider Quaker world, and share the news and challenges of these groups with the local Meeting. We are gratified that the First Day worship during the annual session of our Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting fills our Meeting Room once a year!

We are grateful for the diligence of faithful participants who share and assume the routine tasks of "Keeping the Meeting going." We now have an active Meeting web site that keeps us informed of Meeting activities. Our newsletter editor has put special effort into compiling an interesting and informative document distributed to local and former members and friends. The schedule of monthly potlucks has been revived, experimenting with Saturday night instead of Friday night gatherings. Several interest groups: "Poetry Writing as a Spiritual Practice", "Mystical Practices and Worship Sharing," "Book Group," and "Spiritual Friendship" continue on their separate schedules. The mid-week Meeting for Worship continues to gather at Friends Fellowship Community. The traditions of "Simple Gift Making," the children's Christmas Program (now including the participation of eager adults), and Christmas caroling nurture our fellowship and joy. The fireplaces, closed without authorization a few years ago, were opened in time for our Christmas morning worship. A weekly peace vigil, started on Christmas Eve, 2002, was regretfully laid down this year, as attendance dwindled. Several members of the Meeting were involved in political activities related to the national election. We have welcomed two new members, and two transfers. Two Friends have transferred memberships to other meetings. A long-time, very active member has moved to service in another area. We have experienced loss through the deaths of a long-time member, and a long-time attender. We cherish the friendly experiences we have had with these and others who are no longer with us for regular worship and fellowship. We send greetings to our fellow Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting Friends, and welcome your visits at any time!

Community Friends Meeting

During the last twelve months God has blessed our Meeting with new life and we have witnessed the passing of lives we have held dear. Two of our founding members died within a month of each other: Kay Thomson on 7/14/08 and Jean Stoffregen on 8/14/08. Diana Becket joined the Meeting by transfer on 8/10/08. We were also blessed with the birth of three new babies in our extended meeting community.

Attendance at Meeting for Worship is about 40 adults and 7 children and teens. It is noteworthy that our Meeting has a total of 25 regularly participating attenders, with about 12 of these attending weekly. We have a relatively high proportion of active attenders in relation to active members. Quakerism 101, a course on Introduction to Quakerism, was recently offered with six people attending. Ministry and Counsel dialogues with attenders who might want clearness for membership. We also make a faithful effort to contact young adults at intervals to see if they desire adult membership.

This year has been marked by some major undertakings. The Meeting undertook its largest-ever construction project: the removal of our ancient furnace and radiator system, together with removal of asbestos. The new system provides zoned heating and air conditioning for our caretaker's apartment, First Day School classrooms and the first level of the house. This commitment to be more ecologically responsible and economical was an enormous effort for both our House and Grounds committee and Stewardship committee. Stewardship committee took on the challenging task of planning and carrying out a major Capital Campaign, successfully coordinating donations, pledges and loans to fund the project. The outpouring of support and financial commitment for this project is an indication of the vitality of our meeting community.

Another growing trend for our Meeting has been more extensive networking with other Quakers, Meetings, Peace Churches, and Ecumenical bodies. Meeting members have attended spiritual nurture groups and shared community-building opportunities with other Quaker meetings in Cincinnati. We also shared the planning of a memorial meeting with Cincinnati Friends Meeting. Activities of Peace and Social Concerns Committees and teen groups are shared among the three Cincinnati meetings..

The Religious Development committee holds First Day School for a small but very active primary class, and a large, active group of teens. A monthly intergenerational activity at the rise of meeting for worship has given younger and older Friends opportunities to get better acquainted. Our teens are connecting with the wider Quaker world through regular game nights with teens from the other two Cincinnati meetings, through active involvement with the OVYM teen group, and especially through plans for five of them to participate in the OVYM teen trip to visit Alaska Yearly Meeting. Religious Development Committee and their families supported the teens in planning a successful spaghetti dinner fundraiser for this trip.

Peace and Social Concerns committee has attempted to draw everyone in the Meeting into its activities by holding meetings over potlucks at members' houses and inviting all in the Meeting to attend. The committee has cooperated with other meetings and peace churches on Peace and Social Concerns activities such as an alternatives to local violence brunch, and a gathering of Cincinnati's peace churches at a Mennonite Church. They also continue to coordinate ongoing projects such as providing meals at the Tender Mercies housing project for the mentally ill and working at the Free Store.

Our faithful Community committee takes care of providing First Sunday carry-ins, food for Meeting for Business and other special events. In addition they have planned many enjoyable community-building activities such as Easter egg dyeing and pumpkin carving. Social and educational events, such as cheese making and tapping our own maple tree to make syrup, were also provided by our Friends in Unity with Nature committee. These committees also co-sponsored another successful Quakerfest last summer with live music, food, and entertainment provided by members of all three Cincinnati area Quaker meetings.

Adult Education Committee was small this year and provided Second Hours discussions, the Quakerism 101 class, and a discussion group on Marcus Borg's The Heart of Christianity. In addition, Cincinnati Friends invited our Meeting to all of their adult religious education classes, programming and retreat. Many opportunities for spiritual growth continue to be available to us in wider Friends circles.

Ministry and Counsel Committee again invited Deborah Haines to be the program facilitator for our Fall 2008 weekend Renewal, continuing with the theme of Inreach and Outreach efforts to cultivate a vital spiritual community. We have followed up with many of the suggestions the Renewal generated. Our outreach efforts this past year have included a series of panel discussions called "Quaker Questions" (similar in format to Quaker Quest.) We also designed and printed outreach T-shirts, and shared information about Quakers with other religious and community groups.

Meeting for worship continues to be the center that connects us and pulls us together, and the depth of our worship and ministry is good. We support the ministry of one member of our Meeting who is traveling under a concern for earth care and consumption of local foods, and we support the music ministry project of another member. Many of our members serve in work with OVYM, the Board of the Quaker Heights Care Community in Waynesville, FGC, AFSC, FCNL, the Corporation of Haverford College, and other wider circles of service. We are an active, busy group of people. Our inreach and outreach efforts have borne fruit this year in renewed vitality and the presence of new members and attenders, in spite of losing older faithful members to death and retirement moves. We continue to seek a deeper daily awareness of the presence of the Divine Spirit, and give thanks for the many blessings of our beloved spiritual community.

Dayton Friends Meeting

Dayton Friends Meeting is a small, spiritually rich community.

We continue to be a meeting of spiritual depth. Our meetings for worship are spiritually rich and many members have regular spiritual practices. Our vocal ministry is nourished by these practices and grows out of a deep silence. This enables our place of meeting to be one that is welcoming and within which people find it easy to center. Monthly meeting for business is a continuation of meeting for worship. The regular meeting of the women's group also adds to the spiritual nurture of the meeting.

While our official membership is stable, we have welcomed a new member this year and have had a number of new attendees, including some children. We provide regular first day programming for these children. We have welcomed a new baby into our community, creating a welcoming quilt for her. We have also celebrated the transition of one of our teens to attending Earlham College. We have communicated with members who live at a distance about their membership. These are all adult sons of local members. Most have requested to retain their membership. The meeting will need to address how to communicate with and serve these distant members. We miss one of our elder members who died last year. Her spiritual presence remains with us.

We continue to discuss and work on issues of social concern. Members of the meeting participated in the Dayton Dialogue on Race Relations with members of Omega Baptist Church. Our monthly second-hour discussion has given us the opportunity to address concerns of the meeting such as counter recruitment and to discuss areas of spiritual interest. We have also addressed issues related to death and dying and have given members the opportunity to express and file their requests related to these concerns.

We have worked on our physical space in the Mack Memorial Church of the Brethren. Most of the windows in the Meeting Room are now double-pane glass. The heating and cooling systems are better regulated. We have developed a comfortable place for meeting and will continue to discuss these needs. Our space is now more conducive to quiet worship.

We continue to gather together in homes for celebrations. We have celebrated graduations, new members, Christmas, and Easter this year. These gatherings allow us to enrich our friendships and further strengthen the social life of the Meeting.

The first week-end of April, we shared a joint retreat with Englewood Friends Meeting (FUM). We explored some of the divisions in Quaker traditions with Steve Angell from Earlham School of Religion as our facilitator. Members of the two meetings were able to get to know each other better and to understand our mutual concerns and commitments.

While all of these factors contribute to the vital life of the meeting, we are concerned about the slow growth of the meeting. In addition, the average age of our members is increasing. We have fewer members who are able to provide significant financial support. Many of our members serve in multiple roles. Several active members have retired at a distance or will do so in the near future. All of this serves to make us uncertain about our future. Yet, we are sustained by the presence of the Spirit and the hope for the future.

Eastern Hills Friends Meeting

As a small monthly meeting, Eastern Hills is particularly sensitive to the effect of changes in membership and attendance. In the past year, we have experienced some growth but also some loss.

Our meeting has not grown dramatically in membership or attenders, but we are pleased at the growth that has occurred. We took pleasure in approving a request of one young associate member to move to full membership in the Meeting. We have welcomed a number of visitors throughout the year, some for only one or two Meetings for worship, others staying for months. A new family has become fully involved in the Meeting community. Their two young sons have joined the small number of children in our Meeting and have added to our joy at having children around us. Unfortunately, some members/attenders have drifted away or will be leaving. In the last few years, the number of young people in the Meeting has dwindled as older teens left for college. Some senior members have reached retirement age and have moved or will soon move from Cincinnati. Others have drifted away for other reasons. One member left our Meeting because we had failed to adopt a clear position on same-sex marriage. Such losses may occur in nearly all meetings, but we do not relish the experiences.

The changes at Eastern Hills led us to hold three Second Hours in which we shared our individual perspectives on our Meeting's identity, its strengths and weaknesses, and our visions for the Meeting's future. While we have not made much progress in creating that future, we believe that our open sharing confirmed for us that we are indeed a faith-based community even though there is some diversity of belief among us. We are grateful that during this process we truly practiced listening as an act of love.

Two of the issues we discussed during our visioning sessions were how Eastern Hills Meeting might grow and how we might reach out to the community more. We have diligently maintained our meetinghouse property and see it as an attractive place to gather. We welcome the frequent use of the meetinghouse by a community group, Greater Anderson Promotes Peace. We continue to seek ways that the Meeting and meetinghouse can serve the immediate neighborhood and the community. If we attract more of the community to the meetinghouse, perhaps our spiritual community can grow.

We believe that we have much to offer. We see ourselves as a supportive, loving faith-based family. We see evidence of this in the way that we reach out to others in the Meeting during difficult times. We see it in happier times, as well. Recently, for example, we celebrated the tenth anniversary of one of our young couples. We joined them in a Meeting for Worship during which they recommitted themselves to their marriage.

We also experience rich Meetings for Worship. We begin our worship by lifting our voices in joyous, robust singing to the Divine. Then we enter the silence in expectant waiting. Occasionally, someone rises to share vocal ministry after which we return to the silence, enriched by what we have heard. Even if the silence is not broken, many feel that our worship is frequently deep and bountiful.

Fall Creek Meeting

Diann Herzog, Clerk

Fourth Month, 18th, 2009

On a typical First Day, Fall Creek Friends move from an hour of thoughtful, spirited reading and discussion of the Bible quietly into meeting for worship where we are joined by more Friends arriving for the hour of worship. After sharing warm greetings, we settle into that sweet and loving flow that passes from heart to heart between us and God. We have noticed a deepening in our meetings for worship and feel an intense connection at times, even when we are worshipping separately. All who attend are faithful in their individual spiritual work during the week, which brings passion and energy to the hour spent together. Vocal ministry arises when needed and the Spirit speaks to us, showing us truth, love, compassion and sometimes correction.

We have been taking reading and discussion of the Queries more seriously for the last several months and really taking the time to contemplate and savor them. Doing this as a spiritual practice has had a seasoning effect on us individually and certainly corporately. We are also giving the Testimonies their due, emphasizing their importance in uniting us as a community, while respecting individual understanding.

As one of our attenders recently stated, "Differences of opinion are of small matter; Love rules here". That is the current state and condition of Fall Creek Meeting - Love rules!

Green Plain Meeting

Green Plain Monthly Meeting has a very small membership and many of the members reside in other states. Therefore we are unable to hold meetings on a regular basis. We try to maintain contact with all the members and to provide them with information. Once a year each member receives a copy of the OVYM minutes and a letter with explanations of what has occurred during the year. The members with concerns are asked to share them with the membership. Several members have shared their concerns and other members have been of assistance to them. The Meeting House and grounds are maintained by resident members. Several non-resident members serve the Meeting in other capacities.

Hopewell Friends Meeting

We have wrestled with our discouragements within our meeting. We have also "counted beans" (all the activities we did this past year.)

We struggle with commitment to attend Meeting. We only have 5-8 attending each first day. That means we struggle to keep our doors open at all. We care deeply for the few children that come and desire to give them religious instruction. The children cannot come regularly and this creates a problem of preparation for the class. the age variance creates another obstacle. we need to hear, discuss and practice the queries in Faith and Practice. We need to commit to be at meeting on time. The costs of keeping our beautiful country meeting open are a continual concern as we draw from savings to make it happen.

We now have a sign at Hopewell to tell our worship times. We replaced all our windows with energy efficient ones. We added a Peace Pole in the Peace Garden this year and many walk the labyrinth full of flowers. We had broken water pipes and have not repaired the floors in the bathroom area. Before the flood, we witnessed the wedding of two dear Friends. A member is now pastor at Kokomo and another Friend moved to Boston, MA for a new job as well. A member's husband passed away and we attended his memorial service in Muncie. Kokomo Friends helped us build a ramp for a member. We share a meal each monthly meeting day.

Our activities have included discussion of poetry and art related to peace; support for Crossroads Shelter, a safe-house for women and children struggling with domestic violence; discussion of science versus religion; and reading and discussion of the book The Faith Club (a Muslim, a Christian and a Jewish woman discuss their faith). We hosted a reunion gathering in October and Advancement and Nurture of OVYM. We have a GO GREEN committee to look into more ways of living in peace with our environment.

We are not the building--we at Hopewell Friends care for and love each other deeply. We are still being transformed by our recognition that God is in everyone. We are Spirit Seekers.

Lafayette Friends Meeting
Fourth Month, 2009

Lafayette Friends Meeting has been enriched over the past few years by the presence of several new members and regular attenders. Appreciative as we are for their fresh perspectives and energy and desiring further growth, we find ourselves reaching out to make our presence known to the broader community in our area.

For the third year in a row, we have prepared and served Easter dinner for the homeless at a downtown Methodist church, which provides a noon meal every Sunday, and we are planning to work with the local Church of the Brethren to provide an additional meal. Last fall we joined a coalition of local peace groups to present the AFSC exhibit “Eyes Wide Open” on the human cost of the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan on the Purdue campus, and we continue to support the endeavors of the coalition. Last summer we hosted a concert by singer/songwriter/political activist Tom Neilson at our Meeting House. Tom has been invited back this summer, and we have contacted the local Unitarian Universalist church about using their larger space and publicizing the concert more widely than last year.

Our clerk of some years, Karen Atcheson, who presided at our meetings for business with patience and grace, was given the gift of retirement in January. Our new clerk, Ann Pellegrino, is finding her way with the support and love of the Meeting. Our children’s committee has two new members and is involving other members and attenders in First Day School. Thanks to the work of a committee that was originally formed to draft a budget for charitable contributions, we now have two budgets that separate the work of the Meeting itself from the physical maintenance of the Meeting House, and we are assured that the Meeting House is financially viable.

Lafayette Friends Meeting continues to proceed as the way opens, seeking to support each other, to be appreciative of our varied talents and tolerant of our foibles, and to make the principles of our faith more widely known while walking humbly with our God.

Lexington Friends Meeting

May 1, 2008 to April 30, 2009

Like a plant absorbing sunlight, air, water and earth, our Meeting blends our diverse energies and grows. We welcome many visitors and newer attenders for worship each week as we continue to benefit from the experience of longtime Friends. Our First Days contain enthusiastic singing, a good balance of silence and messages as well as sharing our highs and lows as we build community. We made it through the presidential election without becoming unduly political and are coping with the economy as companions on the journey seeking to sustain one another.

Our annual retreat to Pine Mountain offered us a program on care and nurture of the Meeting. Each of us is called to minister to others, but it is difficult to know how best to offer the support we want to give; how to reach out while respecting Friends’ boundaries. There is always need among us in many shapes and forms. The puzzle is how to effectively bring together our needs and our resources. It has happened that some individuals’ need for support from our Meeting has fallen through the cracks. Our primary basis for care and nurture is to keep current on Friends' contact information. We strive to stay informed about Friends' needs and in touch with those who cannot attend regularly.

Our outreach efforts brought Iraq war veterans and an Iraqi citizen to Lexington to tell what they have seen (part of the AFSC's Wage Peace Campaign); activist Rae Sikora on how to live a sustainable lifestyle; author Shirley Hayden talking about her book "Women of Nelson" a fictionalized account of actual families of black soldiers in 1864. Friends have also participated in protests of mountaintop removal mining, gathering school supplies for those in need, weekly interfaith prayer vigils for peace (6th anniversary) and support of local community groups (BUILD and Manchester Center).

We foster our Friends community with monthly spiritual nurture potluck dinners, Sandwich Sundays, Quaker Eights social potlucks in homes, Quaker Experience discussions, an annual gathering of all Quakers in Kentucky at a camp the kids love, in part for its climbing wall. Our library has been revamped. Our religious education program is strong for both children and adults due to the dedicated efforts of many Friends. We do have a concern of how best to integrate our Meeting into our local neighborhood. We want to be good neighbors, but we ponder on what "community" actually means to us and them.

Our dominant concern throughout this past year has been the renovation of our Meeting House. After much threshing, we created a conceptual plan for the renovation that was brought to an architect. He developed a design that incorporates much of what we want in our building. Financing the renovation is our major obstacle. We continue to thresh hopefully, in a worshipful manner, as we try to reconcile our plans with the cost. We want our Meeting House to be useful, accommodating, environmentally sustainable, attractive and community-oriented. All we need are the funds to make that happen. We are exploring different financing options that may stretch us fiscally as a Meeting.

Our ongoing focus on the renovation can create tension between our spiritual concerns and external considerations. With so much attention in one area for so long, there may be other issues and concerns that are neglected. We must foster awareness of our community of Friends. We hope to continue to live and move and have our being in the Light. We will go at varying speeds and most likely in a spiral rather than in one straightforward direction. Our intention is to match our inner values with our outer action.

Louisville Friend Meeting

Louisville Friends continues to search for the spirit. We see new life emerging and at the same time, there are places we are stuck, as a meeting. We have begun a first hour discussion on the readings of other Friends, the first being Wilmer Cooper's book, A Living Faith. Discussions have been productive and generally well-attended as those Friends who attend wrestle with formulations of Friends faith. Those Friends who are led to activism work with Quaker Committee for Kentucky Legislation, the peace education program, access to health care and other issues. Our Burundi and Sudanese Friends have transitioned to self-sufficiency and some continue to take part actively in our community. We do not have a clerk; others have taken on some of the responsibilities, but way has not opened for a new clerk to come forward.

We have the same attenders actively engaged outside meeting for worship. The same Friends come to monthly meeting and serve on committees. Some Friends voiced a feeling of being depleted. A small number of Friends influence the outcome of decisions in the meeting. The committees are small and it is difficult to fill some committees fully. There is more open discussion and disagreement on issues that in the past may have been avoided

At times, our meeting appears to be a collection of individuals. Newcomers are few, but are welcomed by the members in attendance. Vocal ministry in worship is considered before Friends speak, and perhaps not as frequent as some might wish. The Quality of messages is generally meaningful to those in attendance.

The meeting has approved the addition of space to the meeting house, to provide more classrooms and room for children. This has been a lengthy process, but one to which the meeting is committed.

Louisville Friends are rediscovering our path as a meeting; we look forward to what we will grow into.

Miami Monthly Meeting

Miami Monthly Meeting sends greetings to Friends throughout Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting and beyond. Active membership in the Meeting is relatively small with an average of twelve to fifteen attenders at Meeting for Worship each First Day. The business of the Meeting is borne by five or six Friends. Nevertheless the Meeting finds the capacity to provide ministry in a number of ways. Members continue to serve in leadership positions at Friends Home, Inc. The Meeting continues to provide an early morning service, every other month, at Quaker Heights. Eula

McDermott coordinates and plans these events. Tom Nowel and Lonny Burger serve as clerks of Miami Quarterly Meeting. Members also serve as trustees of the Waynesville Area Cultural Center. Milton Cook continues to serve the Meeting as Clerk, Lonny Burger as Assistant Clerk and Bill Hoch as Treasurer.

The Meeting is financially secure although expenses have exceeded income for the past few years. The budgeting process this year required a reduction in expenses in an attempt to close the deficit gap. Although some contributions have been reduced this year, the Meeting continues its financial support of AFSC, FCNL, FGC, Pendle Hill and other Quaker organizations and some local ministries. The Meeting continues its tradition of providing financial support for members, who are pursuing college educations and other "Friendly" school programs, including Travis Cook, Will Nowel, Zach Cook, Maggie Furnas, Katie Stone, Peter Stone, Woody Stone and David Furnas. The Meeting sponsored and assisted financially in Will Nowel's travel to Washington, DC during Fourth Month, 2009 to participate in the annual FCNL Friends' lobby day. Dialog and peace with Iran and the Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty were topics discussed by Friends with members of Congress including Ohio Senator George Voinovich's staff.

Miami Monthly Meeting held a public open house on Sixth Month, 22, 2008. Approximately fifty attenders at this event included members of the Meeting, Friends from various monthly meetings and members of the public with an interest in the Meeting and Quakerism. Milton Cook spoke about the history of the Meeting, and Paul Buckley discussed basic principles of unprogrammed Quakerism. An informal session followed the presentations which included a light meal and refreshments. Maureen McDermott assisted in the creation of an historic time line of Miami Monthly Meeting for the event which now spans a wall in the Red Brick Meeting House. The event was sponsored and arranged by the Meeting's Advancement Committee which had been resurrected after a number of years of inactivity.

Adult First Day School continues to meet at 9:30 am each First Day. Discussions tend to be informal, but they are educational and serve as a social and learning time for those who attend. The Meeting has been blessed by the attendance this year of students from China who have been visiting with Bob Finley for a number of months. Bob is a retired physician who spent a number of years, in a voluntary capacity, assisting with the establishment of a medical center on mainland China.

The physical property of the Meeting suffered through two significant wind storms during early summer, 2008, a hurricane during Ninth Month and a heavy ice storm this past First Month. A number of large trees around the White Brick Meeting House were downed as well as trees in the Graveyard. Clean-up has been an ongoing project during late winter and early spring. There was little or no damage to any of the Meeting's buildings.

Much has been written about the migration of Friends from Bush River, South Carolina to southwest Ohio around 1800 as a protest against slavery. Some members of Bush River Meeting were original members of Miami Monthly Meeting. Milton Cook traces his roots back to these early Friends. Descendants of these migrating Friends from around the country gathered in Bush River during Fifth Month last spring. Milton attended the gathering and obtained information regarding histories of Miami Monthly Meeting families.

The Meeting was blessed to admit Hannah Salmon into membership following the recommendation of the clearness committee. Hannah is the daughter of Kristin and Peter Salmon and granddaughter of Bill and Jeananne Hoch. Some Friends were removed from the membership roster due to death or loss of contact. Mansir Petrie contacted the Meeting to announce his forthcoming marriage. Mansir grew up in the meeting. He has traveled the world in pursuit of his education and professional endeavors and has always maintained contact with the Meeting.

The annual Fort Ancient worship and picnic lunch was a success again. Friends from a number of meetings in the area joined with Miami Friends on a beautiful First Day morning during Eighth Month. Friends are invited to join us again this summer although it has been announced that Fort Ancient will close to the public this year due to a financial shortfall and the recession. The annual worship and lunch will move to a new location. The historic meeting house located at Pioneer Village in Caesar Creek State Park is being considered.

Miami Monthly Meeting is the host for Miami Quarterly Meeting session during Fifth Month. This year marks the 200 year anniversary of quarterly meeting. The first session was held at Miami Monthly Meeting on Fifth Month, 13th, 1809, almost two hundred years to the day of the scheduled session this year. This first session was held in a log meeting house that was erected for $130.00 and which was near the site of today's Red Brick Meeting House and at the same basic location of the 2009 quarterly meeting session.

Friends from around Ohio Valley Yearly Meeting are always welcome to join Miami Friends for worship in Waynesville at 10:45 am. One Miami Friend recently noted that Miami Monthly Meeting is the only house of religion in the Waynesville area that posts a sign that states "everyone welcome."

For Miami Monthly Meeting,

Tom Nowel

North Meadow Circle of Friends

Dear Friends,

This year, we tried a new approach to creating a state of society report. In the past, one individual has done most of the work in drafting the report. In an attempt to include more viewpoints, the Ministry & Counsel Committee sent an email to everyone on our electronic list, inviting them to give their thoughts on the meeting. Included in the email was a list of meeting activities from the past year. A dozen responses were received. There were a variety of responses, ranging from one simply saying, "I have no opinion," to some that addressed the activities of the meeting one-by-one.

The activities that drew the most comments were meeting for worship and sharing spiritual journeys. Worship is the core of our meeting. Both the silence and the ministry offered are valued – we get plenty of silence, but may not have as much vocal ministry as some would like. One noted, "I always love meeting for worship and the surprises which come forth."

Each month for the past two years, one member or attender told of his or her spiritual journey. Rather than specifying a particular form, we have allowed each presenter to determine what and how to talk about their spiritual life. As a result, we have received a wide variety of stories and have given us deep insight into our fellow worshipers.

Even those who have been in the meeting for a long time have found the opportunity to be one for new understanding and greater depth. One person wrote, "It has been amazing to me to learn more in depth about people that I thought I knew well." Several people hoped that we would ask those who told their stories already to give us an update.

We also have a practice at the rise of meeting each Sunday of going around the room and giving each person a chance to share something of their week. While some find this sharing tedious, they also recognize the value both for those who share and for our spiritual community.

Some of our other activities were held up for comment. One Friend likes the Wednesday evening movies, writing that, "The discussions are important both for learning and hearing how others feel about things and even putting words to my thoughts and feelings." Another said he hope to be able to attend the midweek worship sharing more often. Appreciation was also offered for our social events – including a request that we have more of them.

We continue to miss the activity, excitement, and different contributions that young families bring to a meeting. Many times families with young children stop with us for a short time but then move on to other meetings and churches that offer an active program for youth. It is hard to justify their staying when they desire companions for their children. If only we could reach a critical mass of families on the same Sunday, then perhaps we could reach a critical mass of children! But what might we do differently to welcome enough families and children on the same Sunday?

As we count down to our last mortgage payment, members and attenders struggle with some issues focused around our meeting house. These issues represent more than material or financial concerns, but are central to our sense of covenant community. We know of improvements we should address. For instance, providing adequate restroom access to welcome people of all abilities is one of our top priorities. As we consider the possibilities, there is joy in knowing that the meeting house is considered a welcoming presence for groups and meetings. We sometimes even have scheduling conflicts! We have a great variety of events in our space, including a recently started yoga class.

Our meetings for business continue to be well-attended, reflecting our love and care for our business as Friends. We have almost as many attenders at business meeting as we do for meeting for worship. Lately, meeting for business occasioned a lively exchange of ideas concerning revisions to OVYM's Discipline.

One well-known characteristic of our Circle of Friends is our involvement in social action. Among other things, some members of our meeting hold a weekly vigil against the war in Iraq at the Capehart Federal Building. Other members are very active in the Alternatives to Violence Program in Indiana prisons, Help Increase the Peace for incarcerated youth, and other prison ministries. Our members and attenders are also active in concerns about the Middle East, our environment and use of limited energy resources, and assisting the poor and dispossessed. We continue to have a stock of supplies in the meetinghouse to serve some in our own neighborhood.

Perhaps the simplest statement of what it means to attend North Meadow Circle of Friends was, "I think, learn and feel supported and accepted here at NM."

Oxford Friends Meeting

We maintain a small but diverse and active meeting. We continue to offer an opportunity for sojourning by making ourselves available to students and faculty passing through this college town. We meet at the Campus Ministry Center, whose director Harry Bolen has made us most welcome and provided library space, extra parking, and internet access. We have gained a member by transfer from another OVYM meeting, a lifelong and seasoned Friend who adds substantially to our gifts. We are enriched by diversity of age, experience, educational background, and political involvement.

Weekly meeting is a source of nourishment and community. Our attendance is variable, but weekly meeting for worship is usually 8-12, and midweek meeting is usually four. We maintain our practice of speaking at rise of meeting, giving voice to thoughts that didn't take the form of vocal ministry out of the silence. Many find that this practice helps us understand each other's spiritual and personal lives, and broadens the inclusiveness of ministry. Midweek meeting is an informal practice, gathering at the small chapel of Holy Trinity Episcopal Church. Midweek offers a low-demand opportunity for reflection in the midst of a busy week.

We all feel a sense of community and family from our meeting, enhanced by new members/attenders. We continue the practice of going out to lunch occasionally after meeting, especially when we have visitors. We keep in touch with more distant Friends/attenders by our newsletter, both e-mailed and paper. We have formed an ongoing group to support one member's call to hospital chaplaincy.

Participation in weekly worship supports and inspires us with hope to show up and be counted in local service projects and concerns of peace and justice. Many of us were active in the recent presidential campaign and continue to give active support to the spirit of renewal it offered. Several of us are active on the board of Oxford Citizens for Peace and Justice. We joined with other local peace activists in successfully changing Talawanda High School's military recruitment policy. We shared in the effort to support the local food pantry through the (revived) annual Empty Bowls event. Many of us are involved in the local food movement through the Miami Oxford Organic Network. Several of us also offer service in the community through art work with the elderly, Meals on Wheels, the MS Walk, and the Church World Service's Crop Walk.

With the increasing maturity of our youngest attender, we have enhanced our First Day School program by making it richer and more focused in content, including lessons on relations with nature and each other, Quaker history and practice, and other religious traditions. Adult teachers and our young student have all enjoyed the expanded lesson plan, and we all benefit from her presence and the opportunity to share the gift of learning.

We continue to enjoy second-hour presentations which enrich and support our worship with a balance of inward and outward topics. These have included Quakerism 101, the history of Palestine, sacred and secular community organizing, and others to come.

Oxford Friends serve more widely among Friends beyond the Monthly Meeting. While our Quarterly Meeting attendance has been low this year, we stay active in Yearly Meeting through committee work: Planning, Faith and Practice Revision, Peace and Social Concern, Executive,

Personnel, and Finance. Until the 2008 Sessions, Oxford Friends also served on Nominating and Teen Activity committees as well. Two of us gave workshops at Earlham School of Religion's conference on Christian Spirituality in a Multifaith World. One member has provided a workshop at Pendle Hill, and traveled internationally this year in the service of Friends.

Challenges for us: maintaining active outreach, staying visible despite our small numbers; keeping mindful of the spiritual basis of our outward activity through vocal ministry and otherwise; and finding occasions for more frequent hospitality in our homes.

White Rose Monthly Meeting

White Rose Meeting remains a small gathering of Friends. We meet the first and third First Day of each month for fellowship and worship. We are presently at two regular attendees, with an occasional visitor. Due to the activities of each, we do not meet some of our scheduled days by mutual agreement. The size of the meeting does not easily allow participation by the meeting itself in many activities, but we believe the commitments of the individuals to their various organizations takes the place of these responsibilities, which are usually fulfilled through the meeting. We remain, each in our own way, active in Christ's and Quaker's affairs.

Murray Cox, Clerk

White Rose Meeting.

Yellow Springs Friends Meeting

The work and ministry of Yellow Springs Friends Meeting continues to carry us to places near and far. These include: Friends Music Camp, the Earlham School of Religion, a prison in Lucasville, Ohio, Black Mesa Reservation in northeastern Arizona (among Navajo and Hopi people), as well as a local corner where the Saturday Peace Vigil is in its eighth year.

We have been refreshed and renewed by the Spirit this year -- when many things were made new. Our Peace and Social Concerns Committee has found a new clerk and been revived. We officially began to have greeters at the door to welcome all to meeting on First Day. Antioch College closed. Friends were eventually led to: take over responsibility for all utilities, incorporate the meeting as a nonprofit, replace the heating system in our worship room, and make an offer to buy the meetinghouse for.

Our children's First Day School began and carried out a Meet Thy Friend program in which they got to know some older Friends and to know something of their journey. Worship opportunities now include a 3 p.m. First Day meeting at Friends Care Center, where long time member Irwin Abrams now resides. Other opportunities continue including early worship on First and Fourth days and a worship sharing group on Fifth day afternoons.

We lost a beloved Friend, Seth Duell, who left this life in Seventh month 2008. Whereas several Friends transferred into our meeting only one transferred out – leaving us up in numbers. And, happily, a child was born! Lilly Clair, a daughter, was born to a frequent attender.

Many meetings for eating give us opportunity to learn to know and love each other. Refreshments after rise of meeting on First Days continue various and well attended. Two potluck meals each month support us in being faithful to monthly business meeting as well as committee meetings and special events or visitors like George Brose an attender and David Bucura a Rwandan Friend who spoke on behalf of The African Great Lakes Peace Initiative. There were four successful Friendly Dinners in early Spring and planning has begun for our biannual retreat in Ninth Month 2009.

May all our thanks be to God!

Memorial Minutes

David Klaphaak Sr.

The meeting wishes to minute the passing of David Klaphaak Sr., who died on April 22, 2009 at his home. He was a member of Louisville Friends Meeting for forty years. Memorial services were held after the manner of Friends on May 3, 2009. Many friends and acquaintances joined the family for worship sharing in his memory. The memorial was a reminder of the impact an individual can have on others as they find and reflect the light within.

Minute was approved by Louisville Friends Meeting for worship with attention to business on First day, May 10, 2009.

Horatio C. Wood IV

Horatio C. Wood IV, M.D., “Woody,” was born Tenth month 29, 1928 in New York City, N.Y. He was the son of Olive Yale Anderson and Horatio C. Wood III, of Radnor, PA, members of the Buck Lane Monthly Meeting in Haverford, PA. Woody cherished being a birthright Friend. The family also had two younger children, twin sisters Ellery Yale Wood and Lovell Wood Royston. Woody’s father changed professions and went to medical school after he had his family, making finances tight. Both Haverford School’s high school and Haverford College awarded Woody scholarships, for which he felt lifelong gratitude.

In college he majored in English literature and then followed his father’s footsteps to medical school, attending Washington University at St. Louis. While there he met Barbara June Youngmeyer. They married during his senior year on Tenth month 3, 1953. They celebrated their fiftieth anniversary in 2003. They had three children: Peter Anderson Wood, Katherine “Kate” Wood Logan, and Nicholas Bacon Wood. Woody is survived by his beloved wife, his sisters, son Nicholas, Kate’s daughters Olivia and Rachel, and Nick’s sons Henry and Charles.

Woody interned at the University of Virginia Medical School in Charlottesville, VA. He served two years of alternative service in the U. S. Public Health Service, first at an assignment he requested at the leprosarium in Carville, LA, then in Texas at a federal hospital for drug addiction treatment. His alternative service involved a significant amount of patient counseling and influenced him to pursue a residency in psychiatry at the University of Cincinnati Medical School. He made Cincinnati his permanent home, working for thirty-five years in the private practice of psychiatry. After retirement he worked for five years as Medical Director of the Federal Medical Center in Lexington, KY.

Woody transferred his membership in the Religious Society of Friends from Bucks County Meeting to East Cincinnati Meeting in Second month of 1958. East Cincinnati joined with Seven Hills Meeting in 1968 to form Community Friends Meeting, of which Woody was one of the founding members. He served his Meeting in many roles: as Presiding Clerk, Recording Clerk, Treasurer and Clerk of Ministry and Counsel committee.

Woody was a leader in wider Quaker circles and the civic community as well. He was chosen permanent president of Haverford College's class of 1950, which involved him in fundraising and other work for the Alumni Association. Later he also served on Haverford's Corporation governing body. He both served on and clerked the Board of Trustees of the Quaker Heights Retirement Home in Waynesville, OH for some thirty-five years, seeing it through some of its most extensive phases of construction. Less than a month before Woody's death, Quaker Heights honored him for his invaluable service. For years he served as a Quaker delegate to the Metropolitan Area Religious Coalition of Cincinnati and the Council of Christian Communion of Cincinnati. He was also a member of the American Civil Liberties Union board.

Woody was a devoted family man and a fun-loving human being. He mourned the untimely loss of two of his children—Peter in childhood and Kate, who died of cancer, leaving two young daughters. Barbara and Woody, both in their seventies, adopted Olivia and Rachel. At his memorial service, Olivia described Woody as her only father figure.

Woody loved life, from college days in which he captained the soccer team until his last months, when he still drove Olivia to all her soccer events. His college love of books also lasted all his life; he remained an avid reader and collector of them. He traveled to a different province of France for years, sailed in a local lake and went deep-sea fishing in Puerto Rico for decades. He Elderhosteled and learned to bake bread. He trained German Shepherds. He enjoyed hiking and rafting in the West with his son Nick.

On Fifth month 28, 2009, at age 80, he died quietly at home at 222 Greendale Avenue, Cincinnati, OH—the place where he had lived nearly fifty years, and which he never wanted to leave. His Memorial Service was held on Six month 10th 2009 at The New School in North Avondale, under the oversight of Community Friends Meeting.

Second FirstDay, Seventh Month, 2009

Jean Elizabeth McGrew Stoffregen

Jean Elizabeth McGrew Stoffregen, born October 14, 1919, was the first child of Glen McGrew and Emily Jameson. She grew up in Chicago. In 1940, she graduated Phi Beta Kappa from Indiana University with a major in philosophy. In 1942, she graduated from IU law school, after which she worked as a law clerk for the Indiana Supreme Court. In the early 1940s, Jean joined the Fellowship of Reconciliation (FOR), and traveled to Washington to protest WWII. As a member of FOR, she worked to bring a group from the Congress of Racial Equality (including Bayard Rustin) to Friends Meetings in central Indiana.

When the Chief Justice of the Indiana Supreme Court was appointed to the court at the Nuremberg war crimes trials, he asked Jean to serve as his law clerk. She spent one year in Germany, during which she traveled widely, visiting many camps housing Displaced Persons (DP's, as refugees were officially known). She was instrumental in gaining admittance to the US for many DP's, making it possible for them to begin new lives in America. In 1948, she traveled widely in the Midwest lecturing on her experiences in Europe, and on the plight of DP's.

At one of these lectures she met David Stoffregen, and in 1949 they were married. They lived in the house where David was born, at 2830 Madison Road in Cincinnati for the rest of their lives. Their long marriage lasted until David's death in 1998, just a few months short of their fiftieth wedding anniversary. Jean is survived by their four children, Philip, Emily, Roger and Thomas, together with their spouses, Jean and David's eight grandchildren, and Jean's only sibling, her brother Jameson McGrew.

After their marriage, Jean joined David in the practice of Quakerism for nearly sixty years. She first belonged to Cincinnati Friends Meeting, which gave rise to Seven Hills Meeting, which merged to form Community Friends Meeting, of which she was a member at the time of her death on August 21, 2008. Jean was modest but energetic, always aware of her Meeting community, quietly filling many needs but also ready to lead when needed. She co-clerked the Religious Development Committee when Community Friends was formed. For many years she clerked the Library Committee. She organized seniors to work on the Meeting's newsletter and eventually guided the establishment of the Senior Seekers, a social group for Meeting seniors. All her life she remained active in causes relating to peace and social justice. In the 60's, while raising four children, she went to graduate school to earn a Master's Degree in Social Work..

Jean was a talented photographer, a lover of trees and flowers, of the arts, classical music, and theater. She led her daughter's Girl Scout troop and cooked wonderful meals for her family from scratch. She sewed, did needlepoint and water color painting. Her daughter Emily said, "My mother was the original Martha Stewart." Her wide-ranging love of learning extended into her latest years through many Elderhostels, lectures, tours, and pre-recorded courses. In her 80's she was learning calculus on videotape. Hers was truly an indomitable spirit.

Jean's body was cremated. Her memorial service was held on October 4, 2008 at Cincinnati Friends Meeting house, under the care of Community Friends Meeting.

Kathryn (Kay) Sturm Thomson

Kathryn (Kay) Sturm Thomson was born December 3, 1912 at Winona, MN to Harry F. Sturm and Edna Rudolf. Her long life, which ended on July 14, 2008, may have seemed relatively quiet by worldly standards. On a spiritual level, however, she was a mighty force of pure Light and love who touched many people with her inspiration and compassion.

Kay grew up with her sisters Jeanette and Marjorie, both of whom preceded her in death. They were raised Baptist, with their father serving as both Sunday school teacher and choir master at their church. Kay's father introduced her to music, coaching his two-year old daughter to sing her first solo—a song in a church Christmas pageant. She loved music all her life, later singing in her church choir and at weddings, and playing the piano.

The family moved several times, to the outskirts of Chicago, and to Mason City, IA before settling in Cincinnati. During the Depression her father struggled to provide a living from his general store in Clifton, while all five members of the family lived in a one-bedroom apartment behind the store. Kay went to public schools and graduated from the University of Cincinnati with a major in early childhood education.

Music brought Kay together with her husband, Leland (Lee) Stone Thomson. They met when she was the soloist in a wedding in which he was an usher. On October 11, 1937 they were married. Their marriage lasted until Lee's death on August 24, 2007, less than two months before their seventieth wedding anniversary. Their only son, David Stone Thomson was born September 25, 1945. Kay is survived by her son, by daughter-in-law Joan Coolidge, and granddaughter Rachel from David's first marriage.

Although Kay spent most of her life as a homemaker, when David was grown she worked for several years as a children's librarian in her neighborhood library, reading stories and interacting with the children she loved. She and Lee received a set of hand-made puppets from friends in Germany whom they had helped after the war. For fifty years they delighted in performing puppet plays for children and adults. After Lee's retirement, Kay traveled with him when he volunteered in the International Executive Service Corps for more than ten years. They stayed in eleven developing countries for weeks or months, making some lifelong friends. She cherished memories of this time.

Kay had many talents. She was a fine watercolor artist, and often collaborated with Lee on art projects. When he carved a wooden nativity set, she painted it. She wrote the plays for their puppet shows and occasionally published essays. She was a dedicated gardener who loved having cut flowers from her yard in every season. She enjoyed observing nature and feeding birds. She was a good cook and made a serious study of nutrition and vitamins, to which Lee attributed their longevity. She sewed, making many of her own clothes. To her, beauty was a necessity of life, and she managed to find it everywhere and in everyone.

What made Kay's life and spirit soar was her deep spirituality. She was much more than a member of any one church, but rather someone who tried continually, in every way she could, to practice the presence of God. She joined the Cincinnati Friends in the 1940's and was a member for years before changing to the Unity Church. She felt Friends were then so focused on political activism that they had lost sight of their spiritual base. She again became a Quaker when she joined Community Friends in 1993. Here she was active on Religious Development and Ministry and Counsel committees. She retained her membership until the end of her life.

Although Kay was grounded in Christianity and followed the teachings of Jesus, she was eclectic in her choice of religious sources. She practiced Transcendental Meditation for many years, and read widely in Eastern religions and mysticism. She and Lee hosted many diverse study groups in their home—from spiritual formation, to healing, meditation, and prayer. People of all ages and backgrounds were attracted to her because she listened to them and made them feel valued. Her niece said, “I absolutely adored my aunt. I could barely wait when she came to visit.” Kay cheered and supported many people with special needs, including poverty, addictions, mental illness and incarceration. She believed that we should perform whatever service to our fellow beings that we can. At her memorial, one attender described her as “our Meeting’s resident angel.”

Six years before her death, Kay took the unusual step of composing a statement to be read at her own memorial service. She began it, “As I approach the time of my transition from earthly life to purely spiritual life, I would like to leave behind some comfort and a short credo.” She asserts that she tried to follow the biblical imperative of seeking first the Kingdom of Heaven, and that she believes the Kingdom of Heaven lies within us. But she clearly believed in the reality of an afterlife and hoped to convey that to her loved ones: “Your joy will lighten my spirit as it goes on its way...I shall sometimes send you blessings and do bless me at times too. There is no barrier in the spiritual lives of any of us...whether on this side or on that side...Be of good cheer and live with a good and happy heart. We shall meet again....”

Mary Morrisett Mullin

A long-time member and beloved friend of Clear Creek Monthly Meeting, Mary Mullin, age 93, died on January 16 at Friends Fellowship Community in Richmond. Her family was with her and she went peacefully. Arrangements will be announced by Riggle-Walkermann Mortuary in Richmond.

Mary was born in Columbus, Ohio, on April 29, 1915, to Irving and Anna Rogers Morrisett. She grew up in Dayton, Ohio, and graduated from Denison University. After college, Mary worked for the American Friends Service Committee as a College Secretary in New England and California, recruiting college students to work in AFSC projects and work camps. She was active in the Emergency Peace Campaign in Philadelphia where she met James P. Mullin of Brookville, Indiana. They married on December 27, 1941 and settled in Brookville in 1946 where they raised four daughters.

A member of Clear Creek Monthly Meeting of Friends (Quaker), Mary was active in many organizations both locally, statewide, and nationally. She was a long-time member of the Women's Club in Brookville and the Franklin County Historical Society, a Girl Scout leader for 17 years, on the executive committee of the Dayton Region of the American Friends Service Committee, president of the Indiana Historical Society, and on the Board of Trustees of Earlham College. She was a homemaker and worked as a tax accountant in the James P. Mullin Law Office in Brookville.

After her four children left home, Mary traveled widely with her husband, expanded her gardening interests, and became an enthusiastic quilter. She made more than 200 quilts, many of her own design, which she lovingly gave to many family members and friends. She was an avid reader and computer user, reading the New York Times daily on the Internet.

Mary is survived by her four children, Ann Stromquist (Shel) of Iowa City, Iowa, Beth Mullin (Brad Whitfield) of Knoxville, Tennessee, Marty Mullin (Tom Cooney) of Brookville, Indiana, and Becky Lough (Bob) of Atlanta, Georgia; eight grandchildren, Chris and Matt Stromquist, Nathan and Matt Whitfield, Brendan and Meghan Cooney, Gabe and Dan Lough; two sisters, Virginia Thornberry, Echo Davis (Perry), a brother, Jim Morrissett; numerous nieces and nephews; and many good friends. She was preceded in death by her husband, her parents, one granddaughter, Elizabeth Stromquist, and four siblings, Irving Morrissett, Edie Morrissett, Alice Rhodes, and Ann Davidon.

In an email to her grandchildren in December 2008, Mary told them that she was contemplating exploring the vast universe free of a frail body.

A memorial service will be planned for later this spring. In lieu of flowers, contributions can be made in Mary's memory to any of the following: Franklin County Community Foundation, 527 Main St., Brookville, IN 47012; Cope Environmental Center, 4910 Shoemaker Rd., Centerville, IN 47330; American Friends Service Committee, 1501 Cherry St., Philadelphia, PA 19102.

James Andrew Lacey

June 4, 1968 – June 6, 2009

James Lacey was a lifelong Friend and member of Clear Creek Monthly Meeting in Richmond, Indiana, where he was for a time very involved in children's ministry. He is the third child of Margaret S. and Paul A. Lacey (of Richmond), and brother to Mary Lacey (of Richmond) and Patrick Lacey (of New York). He will be remembered as a devoted son, brother, and friend who cherished time with family as a central blessing and source of joy in his life. Second only to this was time with friends, whom James seemed to regard as a kind of extended family. His remarkable gifts for deep and true friendship, playfulness, encouragement, and imagination were shared with many and he is deeply missed.

He graduated from Richmond High School in 1986 and received a BA in History from Earlham College in 1991. After volunteering at the local history museum for several years, he became a museum employee. His father Paul said of him, "James was a collector, and a museum curator at heart." James filled his modest home with elegant arrangements of simple treasures that reflected his interests, including a vast collection of books, games, gaming figures, keys, prisms, swords, polished stones, and many varied works of his own creation. His favorite media included found objects, corks, scrap fabric, stones and wood.

In true Quaker fashion, James appreciated nature and took delight in simple pleasures, like feeding birds and watching the play of light on crystals. He lived fully in the present. He expressed his faith and values by reaching out to others in practical, concrete ways. James loved games, and many can confirm that gaming was a way that he welcomed people, connected them, and enjoyed them. He hosted weekly game dates with different groups of friends, for bowling, for role-playing and other games. For James, it wasn't about winning or losing -- it was about playing the game and enjoying one another's company.

James saved time for joyful pursuits and met his financial needs through helping others with varied tasks such as, carpentry, painting, animal care, handy man services, lawn mowing, and airport and appointment transportation.

James died in a car accident on June 6, 2009, just two days after his 41st birthday. The sudden loss of this loyal friend will be deeply felt throughout our community. A memorial service was held in the manner of Friends on June 28, 2009.

His father Paul offered the following reflections on the significance of James's prism collection:

“Prisms are wonderful, miraculous things. As long as there is sunlight, there is the possibility of rainbows. James loved to place prisms in every well-placed window, so at the best moments his rooms would be a-dazzle in rainbows. I think of William Wordsworth's poem “My heart leaps up when I behold/ A rainbow in the sky....” That's the poem that ends “The child is father of the man/ And I could wish my days to be/Bound each to each by natural piety.” The rainbow in Wordsworth's poem links adulthood to the perpetually enriching springs of childhood, days bound together by natural piety, the gift of always being capable of an openhearted, joyful, affirming, childlike embrace of the world. That is our James. . . .

To say we hold someone in the Light is a promise of loving human fellowship, of active goodwill toward others. Our experience of James is of a man of strong principle, a courageous commitment to love and justice; an honest and generous person, a peacemaker, above all a loving caretaker of other people. He knew how to be a friend, he knew how to love others wholeheartedly; he knew how to forgive the meanness, slights and hurts he experienced. James was and is a child of Light. Above all, he had a great gift for happiness and was a source of happiness for others.”

Seth Joseph Duell

Seth Joseph Duell died July 6th, 2008, at the Friends Care Center in Yellow Springs. He was 83. Seth was born in Ruleton, Kansas on June 25, 1925 to Seth Edwin and Martha Gattshall Duell, one of eleven children. Seth entered the U.S. Navy officers training program and was sent to study engineering at the University of Wisconsin in Madison. At the First Baptist Church there he became engaged to Ellen “Kitty” Newton. A fervent Christian, he decided that military action was not the will of Jesus Christ; he chose an honorable discharge from the Navy and registered as a Conscientious Objector. He graduated in 1947 and went to work for Westinghouse in Pittsburgh. After a year he became convinced that he was called to Christian ministry and entered the Colgate-Rochester Divinity School in Rochester, New York, where Seth earned his Master of Divinity degree. He and Ellen were married in December 1949. In 1954, Seth began a new church in Page Manor and preached integration of housing for the nearby air force base. Four years later, he resigned from the pastorate and returned to engineering at the National Cash Register Company. In 1977 Seth received his Masters in Engineering from the University of Dayton. In addition to NCR, he worked for the Huffman Bicycle Company, Standard Register Company, and Corning, Inc.

Seth and Ellen had five children and shared with them a deep love of music and dance; family members participated in ballet and modern dance classes as well as piano and flute lessons. The children all chose vocations in the fine arts, Daniel and Joseph becoming principal dancers in the New York City Ballet Company. The tragic loss of son Joseph in 1986 by suicide plunged the family into deep sorrow. Seth and Ellen found loving support in the church “family” of the Congregation for Reconciliation.

Seth continued his study of piano after retirement in 2001. In 2002 his poor health required that he move into the Friends Care Center. Ellen moved to Yellow Springs in 2003, and the Yellow Springs Friends Meeting received them both into membership in 2004.
